WOMEN CAMPAIGNERS GET STORMY RECEPTION

Kansas City, Mo., October 27.—Women campaigners of the Hughes special train met a stormy reception in Kansas City late today when their bodyguard of several hundred men clashed with would-be hecklers. Banners and pictures were torn from cars and several men were struck. None of the women was roughly handled.

When the special arrived crowds of republican men attempted to guard a path to waiting motor cars for the women campaigners and sought to hold back the motor cars of women whose banners proclaimed them democrats. The driver of one of the democratic cars, a man, attempted to break through the protecting cordon and the struggle followed. Several of the motor cars of both parties were damaged. The women campaigners spoke at a mass meeting tonight.

128 FRENCH AIRSHIPS ARRIVE IN RUMANIA

London, October 27.—One hundred and twenty-eight French aeroplanes have arrived in Rumania for reconnaissance work on the Transylvania and Dobrudja fronts, says a dispatch from Bucharest to the Wireless Press. Four English aeroplanes arrived at the Rumanian capital yesterday from Imbroa, an island of the Greek archipelago.

Flying from the island of Imbroa across central Bulgaria to Bucharest in a straight line, the English machines traveled a distance of about 300 miles.

VOTES FOR PRESIDENT UNDER ABSENTEE LAW

Little Rock, Ark., October 27.—H. S. Bush, a citizen of Virginia, but temporarily a resident of Arkansas for business reasons, today cast his vote for presidential electors here under the provisions of Virginia's absentee voter law. He marked the ballot which he had received from Virginia officials in the presence of Postmaster William E Floyd at the local federal building. Mr Floyd made affidavit to that effect and tonight the ballot, in registered letter, is on its way to Pulaski, Va.

Women Start Work On "Comfort Bags" For Wounded Heroes

Miss Norman Derr Will Carry a Trunk Load of Christmas Presents to French Soldiers--All Women in the City Are Urged to Help.

In response to a telegram received by Mrs. Alex W. Smith, of 954 Peachtree street, asking her to assist in obtaining 50,000 "comfort bags" for Christmas presents for wounded French soldiers in the hospitals in France, scores of Atlanta women are today at work making these bags and putting into them all sorts of little commonplace necessities which will serve as real luxuries to the soldiers.

The purpose of the "comfort bags" is to provide for the personal belongings of the French soldiers. As it is at present, when a trooper is wounded and sent to a hospital, one of the first things done is to clean out his pockets and in this way a soldier often loses a picture of his sweetheart, letters he values or other things of interest to him. With each soldier having a comfort bag it will be easy to put all his belongings in it, the bag can be marked with his name and his little treasures are thus safe.

The telegram to Mrs. Smith is a duplicate of a cablegram from Anne Morgan and Isabel Lathrop, in Paris, directed to the American Fund for the French Wounded.

In response to this cablegram thousands of women all over the United States will send these little "comfort bags" to the soldiers. Although they will be sent as Christmas presents, the fact in the case is that transportation conditions are such that in the great majority of cases these presents cannot arrive before January or February.

Real "Santa Claus" Here.

Atlanta women, however, are fortunate in having secured a real "Santa Claus" who will take these presents to the wounded soldiers of France and deliver them in person and on time. Miss Norman Derr, sister of Dr John S. Derr, of East Lake, who has recently returned from France, where she has served in the hospitals, leaves Atlanta next week to go back to hospitals behind the French battle lines. She has consented to carry with her for the wounded all the "comfort bags" the women of Atlanta will place at her disposal by next Tuesday noon, and see that they are delivered to the wounded on Christmas morning, just as all Christmas presents should be delivered. For this purpose she will take a big steamer trunk with her, and she hopes it will be packed with bags.

In view of this good office offered by Miss Derr, Mrs. Smith is urging all Atlanta women who can do so to make one or more of these little bags and send them to her residence, 954 Peachtree street, not later than next Tuesday noon.

One of these little bags should be large enough to contain an ordinary writing pad. The bag should be, say 13x15 inches, although bags smaller than this will, of course, be acceptable.

Materials suggested for making the "comfort bags" are creton, gingham, calico, chintz, linen, etc., and gay and cheerful colors are preferred.

Each bag should contain as many as possible—at least six—of the following articles:

Socks, handkerchiefs, safety pins, pipe, pocket comb, pocket mirror, wash cloth, soap, toothbrush, tooth paste, talcum powder, dominoes, picture puzzle, penknife, pencil, penholder, mouth organ, pad of paper, envelopes, tube of vaseline.

Senders of bags are cautioned against including in the bags such articles as playing cards, matches and tobacco. These articles are forbidden to be sent. A special fund, however, is being raised for the purpose of buying tobacco to be distributed among the soldiers at Christmas time.

Bag Should Include Note.

Of course, one should include in the little bag a card or note bearing the name and address of the donor, and a message to the recipient—the message to be written in French if possible.

And will these little Christmas gifts be appreciated?

"One such gift may be the means of saving a life," said Miss Derr Friday. "It is wonderful the cheering and encouraging effect such thoughtfulness will have upon the men who are wounded and suffering in the hospitals behind the fighting lines. One would hardly guess the satisfaction and relief that one of the wounded French soldiers will get from simply arranging his hair with a little pocket comb and mirror. All the little things, which we

STATE TO RECEIVE BIG HIGHWAY FUND

Georgia Department and Plans for County Co-operation Approved by Government, Says Patterson.

Judge T. E. Patterson, chairman of the Georgia highway commission, who has just returned from Washington, where he conferred with L. W. Page, director of the United States bureau of public roads, said Friday that the Georgia state highways department law and the organization of the Georgia department, together with the plans which have been worked out for co-operation between the Georgia counties, the state and the federal government, have been found to comply with all the requirements necessary for Georgia to receive the $2,000,000 fund due her under the federal act for aiding the states in the construction of good roads.

Judge Patterson stated that the work of preparing the maps, blue prints, estimates, etc., of the proposed eight first highways to be built in Georgia with federal co-operation will begin at once and that the commission expects to be able to forward to Washington next week all data concerning these proposed highways necessary for consideration in the matter of extending federal aid to Georgia in the construction of these highways.

Judge Patterson expects that these projects will likely be taken up and acted upon by the federal authorities one at the time. He explained that it is impossible for the aid which the federal government will supply to be extended to all portions of the state at the same time, for the reason that at present not enough of federal funds are available for use in Georgia. He pointed out that the building program contemplated by the Georgia commission extends over a period of five years, and that the federal aid will also extend over that period, each year's apportionment to this state increasing over the year preceding, so that sooner or later every part of the state will have had the benefit of federal aid in the construction of highways.

Judge Patterson stated that he has been invited to attend a meeting of the commissioners of Cobb, Bartow and Floyd counties in the near future, pursuant to the perfection of plans, begun at a meeting at Cartersville this week, for the construction of a highway from Rome to Atlanta. He stated also that a similar meeting, to which he has been invited, will be held at some south Georgia town for the construction of a highway from Macon to Savannah, via Dublin. Both of these propositions are soon to be submitted to the state commission to be approved and forwarded to Washington.

Court Given Shock When Wilson Goes On Trial as Drunk

However, It Was Not the President, Prisoner Claiming to Be Son of Negro Owned by the Father of Wilson.

"City of Atlanta vs. Woodrow Wilson!"

Judge Johnson looked across at the clerk of the recorder's court with a puzzled expression at the clerk.

"What?" he asked.

"City of Atlanta vs. Woodrow Wilson," repeated the clerk.

The court attaches and the idle crowd of police court hangers-on sat upright in their seats. There was no mistaking the entry on the docket. In plainly legible penmanship appeared the docketing.

The door to the "jug" opened. The call was repeated by the officer in charge of the prisoners. The audience held its breath. Then—

A darky, with slightly grizzled, kinky hair, walked out. He noticed the suspense in the court room and a low chuckle escaped.

"Evenin,' jedge," he stated, with a low bow to the court. Johnson leaned toward the officer.

"Is this the p-p-prisoner?" he stammered.

"Dat sho is my name, jedge," the darky responded, "an' I'se proud of it, suh." His form straightened a little as he faced the court.

Judge Johnson smiled. "Uncle," he asked, "are you related to the president?"

"Well," responded the darky, "I is, and den agin' I isn't. It's dis way. My daddy and Mr. Wilson's daddy was powerful close. Yessuh, dey was powerful close. Fo' de war my daddy was one of Mr. Wilson's daddy's head niggers. Mr. Wilson's daddy owned him and when little Woodrow come erlong, a leetle after I did, dey jes' nacherly named me fer him. Use ter do things lak dat in dem days. So, even if I ain't no clost relation of the president, I'm in claimin' distance, anyhow."

The court room rippled with laughter at the explanation of the crafty darky.

"What are you up here for, uncle?" asked Johnson.

"Me an co'n liker, jedge. Me an co'n liker. Dey's got me charged wid being drunk. I mout er been a leetle tipsy, jedge, but I wa'nt sho' nuf drunk. Howsomever, me and co'n liker do get mixed up once in a while."

"Had you been drinking?" the judge asked.

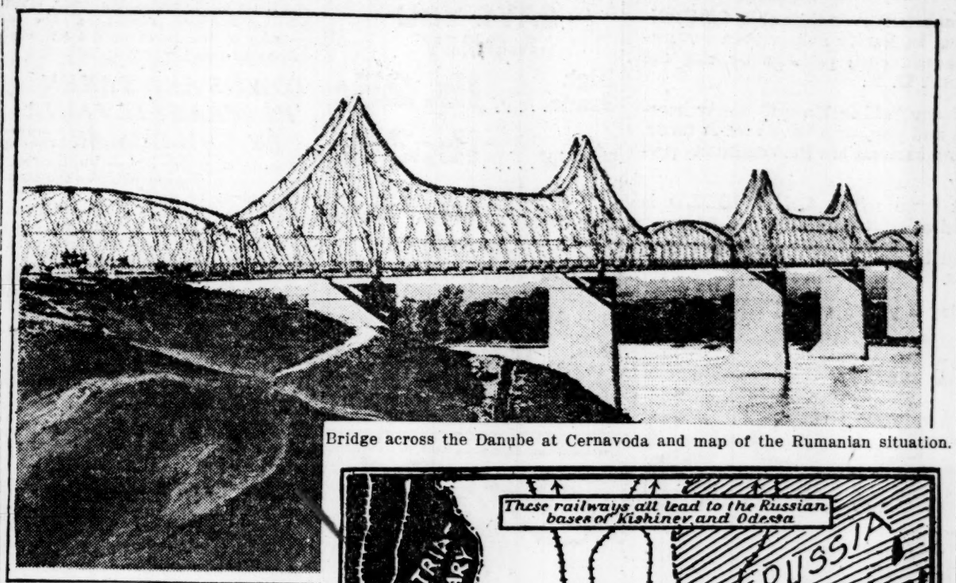
"Jes' a leetle, jedge. Jes' a leetle."

"Well, Woodrow Wilson," sternly announced the recorder, "I'm going to give you just a 'leetle' fine. You can pay the city $1.75 for being drunk on the streets."

The negro walked back to the jug. The court room crowd settled back into their seats.

"Huh," said one attache. "Who said Woodrow wouldn't be elected!"

The Turning Point in the Balkans



Bridge across the Danube at Cernavoda and map of the Rumanian situation.

Map showing the province of Dobrudja in Rumania, which is now the point of central interest in the war movement in the Balkans, and also the great 14-mile bridge across the Danube.

Dobrudja is between Russia and Bulgaria and it was through this province that Russia expected to send a vast army to attack Bulgaria from the north while the allies were moving up from Saloniki in Greece to attack it from the south. But as soon as Rumania joined the war on the side of the allies, Germany, Austria and Turkey sent large reinforcements to Bulgaria and under the leadership of Von Mackensen the march of the Teutonic allies started north to Dobrudja before the Russians had made any marked headway in their southward movement in attempting to effect a junction with the forces of the entente allies and thus throw a line across the main railroad stem that reaches from Vienna to Constantinople, isolating Turkey from Germany and Austria and creating a condition which would put the Teutonic allies to great disadvantage.

Mackensen has already taken Constanza, which is Rumania's main port on the Black sea, through which Russia has been sending vast supplies and reinforcements to Rumania. The Teutonic allies have also taken Cernavoda, the Dobrudja terminus of the great bridge across the Danube. It is said the Russo-Rumanians wrecked the bridge before they retired.

It looks now as if the Teutons will soon overwhelm all of Dobrudja and developments in the Balkans will largely depend upon their success in crossing the Danube and taking hold of the remainder of Rumania. To meet this situation the Russians are said to be concentrating vast relief forces along the border while the vast army of the entente allies, which for months has been concentrating near the Greek Bulgarian border, is slowly moving northward for the purpose of effecting a junction with the Russian forces, and thus hem in the Teuton army now playing such havoc in Dobrudja.

CAUGHT IN THE GRIP OF TWO INVASIONS, RUMANIA FIGHTS WITH DESPERATION

Field Marshal von Mackensen Is Attacking Incessantly in Dobrudja and Rumanians and Russians Are Still Falling Back.

ON TRANSYLVANIA FRONT VON FALKENHAYN'S MEN CONTINUE TO ADVANCE

Rumanian Forces Have Retired South of Predeal Pass and Also in Vulcan Pass Region—In the Uzul Valley, However, the Rumanian Forces Have Gained Ground.

New York, October 27.—(By Associated Press European Cable.)—Rumania, caught in the grip of two invading forces of the central powers, is still struggling desperately to ward off the incessant attacks of Field Marshal von Mackensen and General von Falkenhayn.

Advancing northward in Dobrudja, Von Mackensen's troops have reached a line running from Hirsova, on the Danube, to Casapkeui, on the Black sea coast, from 40 to 60 miles from where they crossed the Constanza-Tchernavoda railway line. The capture of Hirsova would give the Teutonic allies the advantage of having little marshy ground to traverse should they attempt to make a crossing of the river here into old Rumania, as the low-lying ground virtually disappears for some distance around Hirsova.

General von Falkenhayn continues to make progress in the direction of Campulung, south of Predeal, on the Transylvania front, and Bucharest admits a retirement of the Rumanian forces in the Jiul valley, which is situated in the Vulcan pass region. The Russo-Rumanian forces, to the north, have repulsed Austro-German attacks, while in the Uzul valley the Rumanians continue to advance and in the region of Okna have occupied a height and a village.

Inclement weather is impeding operations on the Macedonian front.

TEUTONIC ALLIES PRESS RUMANIANS IN THE DOBRUDJA

Berlin, October 27.—(Via Sayville.)—Field Marshal von Mackensen's forces pursuing the retreating Russo-Rumanian armies in Dobrudja have reached the district of Hirsova, approximately 40 miles north of Tchernavoda, the war office announced today.

The statement says:

"Balkan theater: Army group of Field Marshal von Mackensen: Pursuit of the defeated Dobrudja army continues: Central allied troops have reached the district of Hirsova."

Sofia, October 26.—(Via London, October 27.)—The Russo-Rumanian army in Dobrudja is in precipitate retreat north and west from the Tchernavoda-Constanza railway towards Hirsova, Braila and Tultcha on the Danube, says an official statement of the war office issued today. The capture of fifteen officers and 77 men and fifteen machine guns is announced. The statement reads:

"Rumanian front: Along the Black sea there was quiet. On the whole Dobrudja front the enemy is in precipitate retreat toward Tultcha, Braila and Hirsova. Our pursuit continues. On Wednesday we captured fifteen officers

CARNEGIE HERO MEDALS FOR THREE GEORGIANS

Heroic Acts by W. B. Crowder, O. J. Morton and Isham B. Hailey Are Rewarded.

Pittsburg, October 27.—(Special.)—The Carnegie hero fund commission today rewarded fifty-two acts of heroism by awarding six silver and forty-six bronze medals. Twelve of the heroes lost their lives, and the dependents of six of these were awarded pensions aggregating $3,120 a year, and the dependents of three others were awarded a sum totaling $2,000 to be applied to various purposes. The state of Georgia is represented by three heroes, as following:

Oliver J. Morton (deceased), of Lumpkin.

Walter B. Crowder, of Zetella.

Isham B. Hailey, of Hartwell.

The father of Oliver J. Morton, deceased, of Lumpkin, Ga., was awarded a silver medal, the boy having died attempting to save Katye B. Snelling and Annie L. Hobbs, aged 15 years, from drowning at Richland, Ga., July 17, 1915. Morton, 19 years, suffering from heart trouble, plunged, fully dressed, into Alston's mill pond, swam 45 feet to the girls, but was carried under by them. Other help arrived and the girls were rescued, but Morton sank five feet from the boat.

Walter B. Crowder, 56 years, farmer, of Zetella, Ga., was awarded a bronze medal for saving Homer C. Blanton, aged 22, from suffocation, August 18, 1915. Blanton was overcome in a 25-foot well and efforts to haul him out were unavailing. Crowder descended, tied a rope to Blanton's body and stood at the bottom of the well while Blanton was hauled out. When the rope was returned Crowder tied it to himself and was hauled out.

Isham B. Hailey, 16 years, of Hartwell, Ga., was awarded a bronze medal for saving Neal Craft, aged 9, from drowning in the Savannah river, at Hartwell, May 27, 1915. Craft fell from a ferry boat and Hailey dived in after him. They drifted down stream where another rescuer relieved Hailey of his burden.

U-LINER DEUTSCHLAND IN AMERICAN WATERS?

Reported That German Submarine Will Reach Baltimore in Few Hours.

Norfolk, Va., October 27.—The German undersea merchantman Deutschland, according to reports in circulation in Norfolk and Baltimore tonight, is due at the Virginia Capes in the next few hours en route to Baltimore. It is declared she sailed from Bremen two weeks ago and successfully eluded all British patrol boats.

Tonight there was a report that the Deutschland passed in the capes shortly after nightfall and proceeded up the bay, but this could not be verified.

Home From Battle, He Finds His Girl Has Married Rival

Now the Glamour Has Departed From Adventure and Jimmie Bartlett Is Looking for a Regular Job Again.

It is doubtful whether Jimmie Bartlett ever read the Arabian Nights, but he would fit well in the title of "Inbad the Wailer."

Jimmie has come back to Atlanta after two years of checkered travels that carried him into a number of climes and as many misfortunes.

Despite the fact that he is back again, Jimmie is "in bad," and he's wailing. Full of bullet holes and glory, he came home to learn of supreme misfortune. The girl who promised to wait had grown tired of waiting and run off with a soda clerk.

Jimmie came to Atlanta several years ago with an automobile racing team. The car spilled on the speedway, and his driver was injured for life. Jimmie got out of it with a broken rib or two and minor bruises. He hung his hat in town for a spell, got acquainted with a girl, and worked regularly until a little more than two years ago.

The wanderlust then "bit him" again. He said:

"Now, listen, lady; I gotta do one more stretch on the road—get it outa my system, see! Then I'll do a comeback, an' we'll get hitched and I'll be a husband for life with no more travelin', see! I' just gotta do one more stretch."

He slipped out one night and the next the girl heard of him he was in Havre, France, going there in charge of a cargo of mules. He was booked for a European career when trouble broke out at the American border. Three weeks later Jimmie showed up at Laredo.

May 22, 1916, he was with the troops who repulsed the Mexican invaders at San Ignacio. Jimmie was in the thick of the fray, being wounded seven times. Serving as an auto mechanic, he remained with the United States army until his contract expired, then he hiked to Atlanta, and to his sweetheart.

And now, the glamour being taken from life, the road, adventure, everything, it would seem, Jimmie is hunting a plain, ordinary job.

LANE GIVES THE LIE TO "POSTSCRIPT" STORY

Atlantic City, N. J., October 27.—Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, issued a statement here tonight denying the charge made by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in a speech at Brockton, Mass., last night that President Wilson had added a postscript to the second Lusitania note informing the German government that the contents of the so-called "strict accountability" note were "not to be taken seriously," and that the postscript had disappeared after members of the cabinet threatened to resign if it was attached to the note.

Secretary Lane's statement follows: "I have been asked whether the statement credited to Senator Lodge is true. I was at every meeting of the cabinet where Lusitania notes were discussed and not postscript or anything resembling it in any way whatever was brought before us. Nor have I ever heard of any such suggestion, either from the president or any member of the cabinet. The whole thing is untrue."

Berlin, October 27.—(Via London, October 28.)—At least eleven outpost steamers and two or three torpedo boat destroyers or torpedo boats were sunk or damaged by a German torpedo boat squadron Thursday night in the English channel, between Folkestone and Boulogne, according to an official communication issued here.

"Our torpedo boats safely returned to German waters without any l[oss]."

BRITISH REPORT ON CHANNEL RAID.

London, October 27.—Ten German torpedo boat destroyers attempted to raid the British cross-channel transport service last night, but the attempt failed, says an official statement, issued by the British admiralty today. Two of the German destroyers were sunk and the others were driven off.

One British torpedo boat destroyer, the Flirt, is missing, the British statement adds, and another destroyer, the Nubian, was disabled by a torpedo and ran aground. Nine members of the crew of the Flirt were saved.

The British admiralty announcement follows:

"During last night the enemy attempted a raid with ten destroyers on our cross-channel transport service. The attempt failed.

"One empty transport, the Queen, was sunk. The whole of her crew was saved.

"Two of the enemy destroyers were sunk and the rest were driven off.

"H. M. torpedo boat destroyer Flirt, Lieutenant Richard P. Kellett, R. N., is missing and it is feared she may be lost, but nine of the crew have been saved.

TOWNS ARE TAKEN IN TRANSYLVANIA BY THE RUMANIANS

Petrograd, October 27.—(Via London.) Rumanian troops operating on the western frontier of Moldavia have captured the Transylvanian village of Balan and the Piatrarotkul heights, according to the official statement issued today by the Russian war department.

Fierce fighting, the statement adds, is continuing on both banks of the Jiul river.

The statement follows:

"Transylvanian Front: On the western frontier of Moldavia the Rumanians after a short offensive captured the village of Balan, nine miles northwest of Okna, and the Piatrarotkul heights, nine miles southwest of Okna.

"On the western Valakhia frontier the Rumanians have arrested the enemy's offensive and are consolidating their positions. On both banks of the river Jiul fierce fighting continues."

Bucharest, October 27.—(Via London.) Russo-Rumanian troops are engaged in successful fighting along the Rumanian Transylvanian frontier, according to today's war office announcement. Austro-German attacks in the Tulghes and Bicaz regions and in the Trotus valley were repulsed while in the Uzul valley the Rumanian advance is continuing.

Heavy losses were sustained by the Teutonic troops, which vainly attacked in the region of Dragoslavele, adds the statement, which also says the fighting in the Predeal region continues and announces a withdrawal of the defensive forces toward the southern Transylvanian frontier in the Jiul valley.

The statement follows:

"Northern and northwestern fronts: At Tulghe and Bicaz we repulsed a violent enemy attack. At Ruggis an enemy aeroplane was brought down by our artillery.

"In the Trotus valley the enemy attacked violently, but was repulsed.

"In the Ozul valley our advance continues. We have captured one officer and eighty-two men and taken one machine gune.

"In the Oituz valley calm prevails. On the Brancea frontier, in the Buzeu valley, at Table Butzi, Bratocea and Predeleus the situation is unchanged.

"The enemy attacked with violence at Mount Cerhiet. At Azugel, southwest of Predeal, fighting is in progress.

"In the region of Dragoslavele we have repulsed a very violent enemy attack in the valley of Pravatz. The valley is covered with enemy dead.

"West of the Alt enemy attacks have been repulsed.

"In the Jiul valley we have withdrawn toward the southern exit of the pass.

"Southern Front: On the Danube and Dobrudja there has been no change."

Berlin, October 27.—(Via Sayville.) On the eastern frontier of Transylvania the Austro-German troops have repulsed Rumanian attacks, while south of Predeal and toward Campulung, in Rumania, southwest of the Kronstadt region, the Teutonic attack is making progress, according to the German statement, issued today.

The statement reads:

"Transylvanian Front: Hostile advances on the eastern frontier of Transylvania were repulsed.

"South of Predeal and in the direction of Campulung our attack has made progress."

Vienna, October 27.—(Via London.) The official communication, issued today by Austro-Hungarian general headquarters, says:

"Our attacks north of Campulung (Rumania) and south of Predeal made progress. East of the Hungarian-Rumanian frontier enemy counter attacks were repulsed. Our troops took a Russian vantage point on a height near Charu Dornei (on the Rumanian frontier, south of Dorna Watra). Russian counter attacks failed."

FIGHTING STOPPED ON MACEDONIA LINE BY BAD WEATHER

Paris, October 27.—Unfavorable weather has caused a virtual cessation of operations on the Macedonian front, according to today's war office statement, reporting on that field, which reads:

"There is nothing of importance to report. Bad weather continues to hinder operations."

NO CHANGE, SAY BULGARS.

Sofia, October 26.—(Via London, October 27.)—The Bulgarian statement, issued today, says: "On the Macedonian front there has been no change. South of Lake Presba there was an engagement with weak enemy units. On the front between Lake Presba and the Aegean coast there was nothing but weak artillery firing. The Aegean coast was calm."

Berlin, October 27.—(Via Sayville.)—The German war office today issued the following:

"Macedonian Front: There is nothing of importance to report."

OVATION GIVEN M'ADOOS BY PEOPLE OF KNOXVILLE

Knoxville, Tenn., October 27.—Hundreds of people jammed the union depot here today to greet Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and wife. In Knoxville Mr. McAdoo's family lived for many years, and it is here that his father and mother lie buried. Expecting a short speech from Mr. McAdoo, he mounted an express truck, and after expressing his pleasure at again being in Knoxville, asked to be excused from speaking further than to thank his old friends on behalf of himself and wife for coming to see him. "Put her up," shouted someone, and the cry was taken up by the crowd and continued until Mrs. McAdoo stood beside the secretary, where all could see her. The train was held here until the secretary and wife could be driven to Gray cemetery, where they deposited flowers on the graves of Mr. McAdoo's parents.

$450,000,000 IN GOLD SENT BY THE ALLIES

New York, October 27.—Gold amounting to $15,000,000 from Canada was deposited at the assay office today of J. P. Morgan & Co., acting as fiscal and commercial agents of the British government.

This makes a total of $450,000,000 received thus far this year and practically all for account of British and allied interests.

It is believed that the flotation next week of the new $300,000,000 British loan will bring a temporary halt to further imports of the metal.

CARRANZA IN THE RACE FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Mexico City, October 27.—General Carranza formally announces his candidacy for the presidency today in response to a manifesto of the new constitutionalist-liberal party, which offered him its loyalty and support.

General Carranza said that if people made him president he would obey and cause to be obeyed the laws under the constitution.

Generals Gonzales and Obregon took the oath of loyalty to General Carranza.

General Gonzales said the acceptance of General Carranza marked the necessary return to constitutional order, which was the national aspiration. General Obregon assured General Carranza that he and all the men who had accompanied him through the revolution would serve loyally after the election.

General Eduardo Hay, president of the constitutionalist party, made a formal speech in which he offered the party's support to General Carranza.

TERRIBLE FRENCH FIRE DESCRIBED BY GERMAN

Paris, October 27.—A German carrier pigeon was captured by the French at Fort Douaumont during the fighting in the region of Verdun Tuesday. It carried the following message:

"The rolling fire of the enemy with guns of the heaviest caliber is such that sectors C and H are to a great extent leveled. The garrison, including that of sector V, is disorganized completely. Some of it has been obliged to fall back on the Eighty-third and Ninety-eighth regiments, which also had to retire.

"Sector V (Von Raun's) was subjected to such fire that its observation post was put out of order. All sorties are being bombarded and one is occupied constantly in replacing them.

"The battalion demands its immediate relief this evening by fresh troops it can fight no longer.

12,000,000,000 MARKS REQUIRED BY GERMANY

New War Credit Measure Is Introduced in the Reichstag.

Berlin, October 27.—(Via Sayville.)—A new war credit bill for 12,000,000,000 marks was submitted to the reichstag today by Count von Roedern, secretary of the imperial treasurer, who also reviewed the successes of the German war finances and compared them with the practices followed by the countries opposed to Germany. Count von Roedern stated that the total German war credits up to now amounted to 52,000,000,000 marks. Explaining the practice of the German treasury the imperial treasurer said:

"On the basis of the war credit granted by parliament in all cases short term treasurer bonds which were regularly consolidated with long term loans in the months of March and September, were issued. The amount of more than 47,000,000,000 marks subscribed to these loans, of which 45,000,000,000 marks already had been paid in, proves the success of this financing policy. The German nation in 1914 produced from its own resources 4,500,000,000 marks in such loans; in 1915 more than 21,000,000,000, marks and in 1916, 21,000,000,000 marks.

"You will remember that the first four loans were essentially of the same type carrying 5 per cent interest, and having approximately the same price of issue. There having been raised in this fashion 36,000,000,000 marks in round figures the question seemed justified as to whether the fifth loan could also be placed under the same conditions."

Count von Roedern said these expectations had proved correct as the subscriptions to the fifth loan had amounted to 10,653,000,000 marks. He said that the number of subscribers was about 4,000,000, and, therefore, the fifth war loan must be called a "people's loan."

Count von Roedern, in moving the credit of 12,000,000,000 marks, estimated that the total expenditure of all the belligerents has been 250,000,000,000 marks, exclusive of goods destroyed, of which one-third falls to the share of Germany and her allies. The monthly German expenditure, Count von Roedern stated, has reached about 2,187,000,000 marks, owing to the extension of the fronts into Transylvania and Dobrudja.

Taft Attacks Democrats.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, October 27.—Former President Taft in an address here tonight declared the democratic party was seeking a vote of power for unsound reasons, flayed the free trade tariff and assailed the administration for wasteful extravagance. It was Mr. Taft's second speech in Iowa today, the first being at Burlington.

Skin Tortured Babies Sleep After Cuticura

It's really wonderful how quickly a hot bath with Cuticura Soap followed by a gentle anointing with Cuticura Ointment relieves itching, burning eczemas, rashes and chafings, permits sleep for infant and rest for mother, and points to speedy healment in most cases when it seems nothing would do any good. This is only one of the many things Cuticura does for the skin. Use them for every-day toilet purposes and have a clear skin, clean scalp, good hair and soft hands. Samples free by return mail for the asking. Address postcard: "Cuticura," Dept. 15F, Boston. Sold everywhere.

NEW FRENCH DRIVE IN VERDUN REGION

Advances Made West and South of Fort Vaux—German Counter Attacks Are Repulsed.

New York, October 27.—(By Associated Press European Cable.)—Before Verdun the French are driving anew at the German lines after having, according to Paris, repulsed numerous counter attacks in efforts to recapture Fort Douaumont and other positions taken by General Nivelle's forces in their great drive of Tuesday last. In a fresh attack last night, the statement declares, the French scored advances west and south of Fort Vaux, closing in further upon this important work.

Berlin declares that a French attack yesterday in the region east of Fort Douaumont was repulsed with heavy losses.

Apparently the Germans are preparing for further attacks, as Paris reports a violent bombardment of the French lines at Fort Douaumont and the Chenois wood.

On the Somme front Berlin announces the breaking up by German guns of a French attack in preparation in the Fresnes-Mazancourt-Chaulnes sector south of the river.

On the eastern front in Russia there has been little fighting, except in the region of the Shara river, northwest of Pinsk. Near Goldovitchi a German attack forced the Russians to retire to the eastern bank of Shara.

MORE GAINS MADE BY FRENCH TROOPS IN VERDUN REGION

Paris, October 27.—French troops made further progress last night in the Verdun region, advancing west and south of the fortress of Vaux, according to the official announcement issued today by the French war department. One hundred Germans were made prisoner.

German artillery, the statement adds, is violently bombarding Chenois wood and Fort Douaumont, which were captured by the French in their surprise attack Tuesday night.

In the region of the Somme last night French artillery destroyed a German munition depot near Ablaincourt.

The text reads:

"On the Somme front there was an intermittent cannonade. Our artillery fire blew up an ammunition depot in the region of Genermont and Ablaincourt.

"North of Verdun we carried out during the night some minor operations. In the sector to the west and south of Fort Vaux we took 100 prisoners and made some progress during these actions. The enemy violently bombarded our positions in the regions of Douaumont and Chenois.

"There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front.

"Aviation: Last night our bombarding aeroplanes dropped 40 bombs on the railway station at Grandpre; eight on the railway station at Challerange; 30 on enemy bivouacs at Fretoy-Le-Chateau, and Avricourt, north of Lassigny, where two fires were seen to break out.

"On the same night ten of our machines dropped 240 bombs on the railway station at Conflans and 30 on the railway station at Courceiles. Many projectiles struck their objectives.

"Another of our machines dropped six shells on the railway line at Pagny-Sur-Moselle."

The French official communication, issued this evening, says:

"On the Somme front there has been considerable artillery activity on both sides in the sectors of Sailly-Saillisel, Bouchavesnes and Biaches.

"North of Verdun the enemy today directed a continuous violent bombardment against our first line, especially on Haudromont ravine, Douaumont fort and the Damloup battery. An attempted enemy attack west of the village of Douaumont was absolutely checked by our curtain of fire.

"On the remainder of the front there is nothing of importance to report. Bad weather is general and is impeding operations."

BRITISH RAID GERMAN TRENCHES.

London, October 27.—British troops last night raided the German trenches in the secton south of the River Ancre in northern France, says the official statement issued by the British war department today. On this front a heavy rain fell during the night. The statement follows:

"Rain fell heavily during the night. Hostile artillery was active against our front south of the Ancre. At one point in that area we successfully raided enemy trenches. Otherwise there is nothing to report."

The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"The heavy rain continued during the day. Hostile artillery and trench mortars were active between La Bassee and Hulluch and in the neighborhood of Beaumont and Hemel. We bombarded enemy trenches south of Armentieres.

"Yesterday enemy aeroplanes showed an unusual activity. Aerial engagements took place between large numbers of machines on both sides. It is reported that five machines fell during a fight, two of which were ours. On another occasion one of our pilots, encountering a formation of ten hostile machines, attacked them single-handed and dispersed them far behind their own lines."

ATTACK CHECKED, GERMANS REPORT.

Berlin, October 27.—(Via Sayville.)—On the south bank of the River Somme last night German artillery fire against the French trenches in the sector of Fresnes, Mazancourt and Chaulnes held down a strong attack which was under preparaion, says the German official statement issued today. North of the Somme last night the only engagements were those of reconnoitering detachments, the statement adds.

French forces at noon yesterday attacked the German positions to the east of Douaumont fort in the region of Verdun, but were completely repulsed with heavy losses, says the German official announcement.

The German statement reads:

"Western war theater: Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht: In addition to strong fire activity of the artillery on the north bank of the Somme there were only engagements of reconnoitering detachments.

"On the south bank of the Somme our efficient fire directed against hostile trenches in the sector of Fresnes, Mazancourt and Chaulnes held down a French attack which was under preparation.

"Army group of Crown Prince Frederick William: Artillery duels during the day were very violent on the east bank of the Meuse between Pepper Ridge and the Woevre. At noon the French attacked our positions east of Fort Douaumont, but were completely repulsed with heavy losses."

RUSSIANS DRIVEN OVER RIVER SHARA BY GERMAN FORCES

Petrograd, October 27.—(Via London.)—German forces yesterday launched an attack against the Russian positions on the western bank of the River Shara, in the region of Goldovitchi, and forced the retirement of the Russians to the eastern bank of the river, says today's Russian official statement.

The announcement says:

"Western (Russian) Front: Small German forces attacked our positions south of Riga, but were repelled.

"Under the cover of violent artillery fire the enemy, about a battalion strong, launched an attack on our advanced posts, occupying the western bank of the River Shara in the region of Goldovitchi. Our troops were compelled to retire to the eastern bank.

"In the wooded Carpathians in the region south of Rafailov and west of Vorokhta enemy attempts to assume the offensive were arrested by our fire."

"Small Turkish forces yesterday attempted to advance toward Sharafkhan, 6 miles south of Ziaret, on the Caucasian front, but they were repelled," says the statement.

"In the Sakkis region (Persia) our troops captured a portion of the Turkish transport."

GERMANS REPULSE RUSSIAN ATTACK.

Berlin, October 27.—(Via Sayville.)—Russian troops in the district west of Lutsk, in Volhynis, made a heavy attack at midnight on the Austro-German line in the Kiselin sector, after prolonged artillery preparation. The attack, the war office announces, broke down before the defensive entanglements.

The Russians have repeated their attacks along the Shara river, but failed to gain any advantage.

In the southern Carpathians there were renewed asaults on the Teutonic lines by the Russians and Rumanians, but here also the hostile effort to advance was futile.

The statement reads:

"Eastern War Theater: Front of Prince Leopold: On the Shara river the Russians twice repeated their attacks without result. Storming parties were driven back by the occupants of our trenches. Further south at the mouth of the Vedsma Silesian reserves captured an advanced Russian position and brought in one officer and eighty men as prisoners.

"Lutsk Front: In the sector of Kiselin strong Russian artillery fire continued. An artillery attack ensued but it broke down before our barricades under our fire.

"Front of Archduke Charles: On the southern part of the Carpathian forest renewed Russian and Rumanian attacks failed."

ARTILLERY DUELS ARE IN PROGRESS ON ITALIAN FRONT

Rome, October 27.—(Via London.)—The following official communication was issued today:

"In the Largazina valley the accurate fire of one of our batteries destroyed the site of the enemy headquarters and some stores at Isera, west of Rovereto.

"On the Julian front the enemy's artillery has increased its activity from Vertoibizza to the sea. Our batteries replied with effect and caused the explosion of two ammunition depots in the Austrian line.

"In the Carso zone, a raiding party entered an enemy trench, where a heavy caliber trench mortar was captured."

Vienna, October 27.—(Via London.)—The Austrian war office today issued the following:

"Italian Theater: Enemy artillery and mine throwers have been active against our positions on the Carso plateau and behind it, sometimes with great violence."

BLACK DIDN'T SHOOT AT MEN WHO SLEW HIM

Deputy Testifies Anti-Catholic Lecturer's Gun Was Not Fired.

Galveston, Texas, October 27.—Over the defense's objection, the state today introduced into the John Copeland trial a conversation which I. A. Morgan, of Marshall, said he had with George Ryan shortly after the killing of William Black, an anti-Catholic lecturer, at Marshall, February 3, 1915.

Morgan, a first lieutenant in the Third Texas infantry, now stationed at Corpus Christi, but at the time employed in the Marshall postoffice, was the second witness called by the state in rebuttal.

"Blood on His Hands."

Morgan testified that George Ryan, one of the men accused of the murder of Black, was near the scene of the alleged murder, with "blood on his hands" and had admitted "going up to Black's room to make or have him leave town."

Morgan told of meeting Ryan at the hotel in Marshall after hearing the shots.

"Ryan came into the lobby from down stairs," Morgan said. "There was blood on his hands."

Morgan said he asked Ryan if he was hurt, but that Ryan told him no, but that "those—there have shot Rogers and Copeland."

"What was the trouble?" Morgan asked Ryan. The reply, according to the witness, was:

"We went up there to make or have them leave town."

Ryan's trial is set for next week.

Rev. J. M. Smith, a Methodist minister, now of Kelleyville, Marion county, but at the time of the killing a Marshall resident, testified that he attended Black's lecture on the night of February 2, 1915, and that while an attack was delivered on Roman Catholicism, no names were mentioned and nothing was said in reference to any particular person.

Black's Gun Not Fired.

The last witness of the day was John B. Henderson, chief deputy sheriff of Harrison county, who, when he heard shooting, ran from the courthouse to the hotel lobby and thence to the room in which lay Black and Rogers.

Black's gun had never been shot, he said.

He testified that he examined Black's body in company with Justice of the Peace Young. He found two wounds, one in the breast, just over the left nipple, the other a flesh wound in the stomach.

In Black's coat at the back, he said, he found the bullet that had passed through the breast.

The state's rebuttal was not concluded when court was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Sadie E. Black, adopted daughter of Black, will not be a witness, it was stated by attorneys for the state when the trial was resumed today.

A telegram announced the inability of the witness to attend. Counsel for the state said they had exhausted every means of bringing the girl to Galveston, but could not legally compel her attendance.

SECOND GEORGIA REACHES BORDER

Troops Occupy Camp Recently Evacuated by Fifth Massachusetts Infantry, Which Recently Returned Home.

By J. Walter LeCraw.

El Paso, Texas, October 27.—(Special.)—In their new camp site on the border, the Second Georgia infantry pitched their tents today, bringing to a close their hot and tiresome trip from Macon to El Paso. Under the command of Colonel J. A. Thomas, of Macon, the Second arrived shortly before day break this morning, the three troop trains containing the regiment reaching El Paso at half-hour intervals. About 7 a. m. the regiment detrained and marched to its camp site, which was recently evacuated when the Fifth Massachusetts infantry left for home.

Both Colonel Thomas and Lieutenant Colonel Kimbrough expressed themselves as well pleased with the camp site furnished the regiment. Mess halls are already erected, and tent frames are ready for many of the tents. The camp is well drained and sanitary.

There is a splendid Y. M. C. A. building adjoining the camp, where the men gather at nights for recreation and lectures and all things combined make the site one of the best of the border. It is located about three-quarters of a mile from the boundary line between Texas and Mexico and the Georgia boys will therefore have early opportunity of doing actual patrol duty along the border.

The Georgia infantry will have a part in the protection of a very important section of the border right here at the heart of El Paso. There has been no trouble at this point in the last few months, however, and not even an exchange of shots in some time.

The Eighth and Ninth Massachusetts infantry regiments are still here encamped in the sites which will be occupied by the First and Fifth Georgia regiments alongside the Second. The First and Fifth Georgia, when they arrive, may have to camp in their small pup tents on the parade ground for a night or two.

The sight of familiar Georgia faces again made glad the hearts of the artillerymen, who have been on the border now only a few weeks, but who feel like they have been here for months. Friday was spent by the battalion of artillery in a heavy drill that lasted practically all morning under a scorching sun and a blinding dust and the afternoon was spent in cleaning and adjusting the harness and working with the horses and stables in preparation for an inspection tomorrow by Colonel H. G. Bishop, commanding the provisional regiment of artillery, of which the Georgia battalion is now a part.

First Georgia Arriving.

Late Friday night three troop trains bearing the First Georgia infantry arrived in El Paso and the Fifth regiment trains were reported to be close behind and will probably arrive before the night is over.

The First regiment trains were switched to the railroad yards adjacent to Camp Cotton, where the Georgia boys were ordered to remain for the night. They will unload and pitch their camp early Saturday night.

RATE ON LUMBER HELD TO BE UNREASONABLE

Washington, October 27.—The interstate commerce commission decided today that the rate of 9 cents per 100 pounds charged for transportation of a carload of lumber from Wellington, Ala., to Chattanooga is unreasonable to the extent it exceeds 8 cents per 100 pounds.

Reparation by the Seaboard Air Line was ordered. The complainant was the Advance Lumber company, of Birmingham.

regard over here as mere trifles, will be received by one of the wounded soldiers as a veritable treasure. This is particularly true of the French soldier. He will be pleased and helped beyond words by little attentions which would have not the slightest effect upon an English Tommy,' for instance.

"I shall be more than delighted to take back with me these little presents from the good people of Atlanta to the brave men who have been wounded in the service of their country. It is imperative, however, that I get the little bags not later than Tuesday noon."

Miss Derr, who has had a great deal of experience in the French war hospitals, also called attention to the great need of rubber rings, cotton and other such hospital supplies for the wounded, these, she said, being acceptable at all times.

While all "comfort bags" to be taken to France by Miss Derr must be delivered to Mrs. Smith by noon Tuesday, this will not be the end of the work in Atlanta. Women of this city are urged to keep on making bags and send them to Mrs. Smith. They will then be forwarded to France through the official channels, and while they will arrive after Christmas they will be none the less welcome and none the less of value to the recipients.

A Particularly Attractive Display

Of Infants' White Coats

In the Junior Department (Third Floor)

One phase of the Junior Department's displays of apparel for the young folks that we must touch on is the infants' white coats that we have gathered!

There are so many different kinds, all so lovely and fresh that we must urge mothers to see them—and we promise that mothers will be delighted.

The variety of little white and cream cashmere and crepe de chine coats, many of them hand-embroidered is glorious—and seemingly all-inclusive.

But—the white corduroys—and the soft white lambs' wool coats that can be washed—these are the things that are proving so popular. The corduroys are $3.75 and $4.00. The lambs' wool coats are $5.75. Sizes six months to one and two years. And we've the litle corduroy hats to match the corduroy coats—at $1.50 and $1.75. They have the little ear tabs that mean comfort when baby takes his "constitutional" roll or stroll.

An Opening Display

Of Children's Furs

Come, an opening display of Furs for children!

Quite an affair; quite a style show!

And is their any reason why the children should not have such a day? From our viewpoint there isn't. For you must remember that to our Junior Department children are our chieftest concern, and since we have gathered styles for them with all the seriousness and energy and ability that we possess, then an opening display of Furs is a most logical affair.

New styles of muffs, new styles of neckpieces, smart sets—of imitation ermine, several kinds of fox, moufflon, coney, muskrat, nutria.

Prices begin at $1.75 for pieces for tiny girls and go to $31.50 for handsome sets for the larger girls.

PLAN CUT IN FORCES OF CITY DEPARTMENTS

Members of Council Are Discussing Changes Under New Administration.

Members of council are discussing the probability of the 1917-1918 finance committee and council cutting down the force in several city departments.

It is argued that the incoming administration is to be operated strictly on the basis of business efficiency, and that this will be the plan during the first year in order that the city may have something to operate on during the second year.

It has been suggested by members of council that the departments of construction, comptroller, city warden, city marshal and water could very easily be operated with a smaller number of employees in the office.

An effort along this line was made last June while the controversy in council over the finance sheet was being waged. It is declared by some members of council that this effort to cut salaries was the main reason for not passing a June finance sheet, but, on the other hand, it is claimed that the incoming council will be forced to make a general cut in operating expense if they want to see anything of real benefit to the city accomplished.

ATLANTA TO END YEAR IN DEBT, SAYS MAYOR

Not Possible to Provide for Crematory Payment, Asserts Woodward.

Though the city has been able in the past few months to pay back the entire amount, $400,000, borrowed at the beginning of this year by council, Mayor Woodward declares that he does not see how Atlanta can be free of debt by the end of his term.

He has succeeded, by holding up all improvements for the past two months or more, in paying off all borrowed money and all current bills up to date. But even with this large sum disposed of, he believes that the city will wind up the year considerably in debt.

One thing that cannot possibly be provided for this year, he says, is the balance on the crematory judgment consented to by council some time ago over his veto after a controversy lasting for several meetings of council.

This totals about $70,000, with principal and interest plus all costs of court, due by the city under the terms of the agreement with the Destructor company.

Besides this sum, the mayor predicts that several other items now due by the city will have to be carried over into the new year. He also is of the opinion that money to meet the bills for operating expenses during the months of November and December may be hard to find and there is a chance of having the December bills go over into January.

WARWICK WILL APPEAR AT THE GRAND MONDAY

Robert Warwick, the well-known film star, and one of the American screen's most popular matinee idols, is expected to appear at the Grand theater Monday night at the opening of Marcus Loew vaudeville in company with Mr. Loew and a group of film and stage celebrities.

Mr. Loew last night wired the Grand management that he would be in the city for the opening, and that he had been assured by Warwick that the actor would also come for a personal appearance before an Atlanta audience. Other celebrities would also accompany Mr. Loew south, although he gave no other names.

Warwick will be seen in the picture, "The Heart of a Hero," the World feature drama, in which he is a co-star with Gail Kane. Prior to his advent in pictures, Warwick was prominent on the stage.

HUGHES MAKES REPLY TO PRESIDENT WILSON

In Regard to Meeting Trade Competition After the War Closes.

Rochester, N. Y., October 27.—Charles E. Hughes tonight replied to statements in President Wilson's Cincinnati speech concerning preparations to meet commercial competition after the war.

Mr. Hughes told an audience here that the administration's views reminded him of its views on preparedness in December, 1914, which were afterward changed; that he considered the anti-dumping provision of the revenue bill, intended to meet the situation, as "farcial," and "worse than useless," to protect American workmen; and that even if the percentage of exports of commodities to supply armies was small, it required but very little "to contract or destroy the prosperity of the country."

The nominee addressed an audience that cheered him repeatedly. He told them that, as he had been while governor of New York, he was now and should be in the future; that he was willing to stand or fall by what he believed to be right.

"It was said in December, 1914," Mr. Hughes asserted, "that America was ready; that any suggestion to the contrary was thoughtless, but in truth America was far from ready. It is now said with reference to the commercial rivalry that America is ready. I think, in truth, that America is far from ready and that we shall not be ready until we have a clearer notion of what we may expect."

Mr. Hughes' speech here tonight was the fourth one of the day. In his first address at Utica he devoted much time to the tariff views and Americanism. He reiterated his denial that a vote for him meant a vote for war.

At Geneva, as the train was pulling out, an elderly man carrying a musket tried to clamber aboard the rear platform of Mr. Hughes' private car. He was uncertain in his movements, but finally gained a foothold on the step. The detectives guarding Mr. Hughes shouted to him to get off, and when he disregarded the warning, took the musket from him and with a blow knocked him from his position.

After the incident it was thought that the old man had intended to present the weapon to the nominee.

PRESIDENT WILSON GAINS IN MARYLAND, ASSERTS ATLANTAN

According to Reuben R. Arnold, prominent Atlanta attorney, who is at present in Maryland in the interests of the campaign for re-election of Woodrow Wilson, the president is rapidly gaining strength in that section. Mr. Arnold states that the race appears to be very close and that the republican party is spending money galore, but he sees a slight advantage for the president.

Mr. Arnold is speaking on the invitation of the national campaign committee, extended to him last summer. Congressmen David J. Lewis and Jesse D. Price, of Maryland, and Governor Harrington are with Mr. Arnold on the tour.

"GO-TO-CHURCH SUNDAY."

Atlanta Will Properly Observe Day Tomorrow.

All is in readiness for the observance of "Go-To-Church Sunday," which comes tomorrow.

No effort has been spared by the committee on church co-operation in directing attention churchward. On the streets downtown and in the suburbs considerable interest has been created by the Boy Scouts, who are distributing cards of invitation similar in text to the larger cards in the store windows. The Scouts, thirteen troops of them participating, will work in shifts covering the entire day.

College Park, Decatur, Edgewood, Hapeville and Kirkwood will also observe the day. Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of North Avenue Presbyterian church, characterized the movement as "the whole-hearted invitation of the whole church to the whole city."

ENTERTAIN PHONE MEN.

Rotarians Give Luncheon to Members of Clubs.

The officers and directors of the local Rotary club entertained in honor of the Rotarian telephone pioneers, now attending the convention here, at a luncheon Friday at the Capital City club. The luncheon was informal and many interesting talks were made by the visitors and members of the local club. Evelyn Harris and Kendall Weisiger, who are handling the telephone convention, are charter members of the local Rotary club.

Impressive talks were made by Louis K. Webb of Louisville, Ky., Fred H. Young and J. D. Elsworth, both of New York, and R. T. McComas, of the Cincinnati Rotary club. Other visiting Rotarians were T. B. Baird of New Orleans, H. E. Allen of Dayton, Ohio, W. K. Boardman of Nashville, Tenn., and T. T. Cook of Baltimore. L. D. Hicks presided at the luncheon.

CHASED BY BLOODHOUND

S. H. Smith Tells of His First Visit to Atlanta.

S. H. Smith, of Danbury, Conn., a pioneer telephone man, who is stopping at the Piedmont hotel, while on his visit here, commented yesterday upon the great change in the attitude of the people here toward him on his present visit and a visit that he made to the city during the campaign that was waged around Atlanta during 1864.

"You chased me out of town then," he said, "with a pack of bloodhounds on my heels. I was nothing more than a slip of a lad, who had joined the union forces and when we were fighting around Atlanta, General Sherman detailed me to go into the confederate lines and secure all information that was possible.

"While in Atlanta some one discovered me. At once they began the chase that continued to the river. When near the river I realized that the hounds would overtake me, so it seemed I either had to shoot the dogs or be captured. I waded into the river and waited for the dogs. They came in single file, so I took my knife, killing all five of the dogs as they came on me one at the time. Then I swam the river, reaching the union lines in safety."

POE'S OLD WORKSHOP TO BE DEMOLISHED

Richmond, Va., October 27.—Edgar Allan Poe's old workshop, The Southern Literary Messenger building, must be torn down within five days, under order of Police Justice Crutchfield, entered today on complaint of Building Inspector Butler, who declared the building unsafe and liable to collapse at any time.

A citizens' committee, which has been endeavoring to devise a way to preserve the building as a memorial to the poet, who produced many of his earlier writings in it, will defray the cost of razing the structure in such a way that it can later be relaid on the grounds of Richmond college.

The Rising Cost-Tide

In almost every department of life the cost is increasing. Everything we eat or wear or use, from a peck of potatoes to a full dress suit, grows constantly more expensive.

There is, however, one important exception—Life Insurance—which, in the last ten years, has shown a steady decrease in cost without the slightest deterioration in quality. There was never a time when your dollar would buy so much good life insurance. For example, the Mutual Benefit Life of Newark, New Jersey, has within that period three times increased its regular Dividend Scale, bringing the net cost to members lower and lower. Furthermore, this company has within that time been able, by reason of economy and good management, to pay its members four Special Dividends.

Being a purely mutual company, with no stockholders, all savings go direct to our members. That's why we can and do extend to the old members, free of cost, improvements and advantages incorporated in our new policies.

This Bale of Georgia Cotton Surprises Telephone Pioneer

When Dr. Thomas D. Lockwood, organizer, vice president and guiding spirit of the Telephone Pioneers of America, was in all seriousness presented with a bale of Georgia raised cotton by Forrest Adair at the Pioneers' banquet last night at the Piedmont hotel, he was taken completely off of his guard and doubtless began to calculate just how he was going to get his bulky present to his distant Boston home.

Mr. Adair told him that, as cotton was occupying a place of first consideration right now, not only in the mind of the southern farmer, but of the whole country, he did not know of a more appropriate or more valuable gift that could be tendered him as a token of appreciation by the telephone people of Atlanta than a bale of the fleecy staple.

The bale had been solemnly rolled in on a truck and all present could attest its genuineness. The doctor's amazement did not grow less, after he had concluded his speech accepting the gift, when the bale suddenly opened and a young girl sprang out and began to sing a song. He was willing to take the cotton and solve the problem of its future disposition later. But, as a married man, he found the girl a problem of a still more difficult nature. However, as it was decided that she was too young to leave her mother, he was given permission to leave the young lady in Georgia.

Surprise of Banquet.

This was only one of the surprising features which made the banquet given by the American Telephone and Telegraph company to the Pioneers one of the most enjoyable and long to be remembered that the guests had had the privilege of participating in.

There were about three hundred gentlemen and ladies seated at the tables in the dining room on the first floor of the hotel. At the conclusion of a most delectable menu, interspersed with the features of entertainment provided by the local reception committee, the toastmaster, Dr. Lockwood, rose to express the thanks of the visitors for the entertainment and to introduce the speakers of the evening. He declared that the banquet had proven all the more delightful in view of the discovery the guests had made that Georgia was bounded on the north, south, east and west by water and that nothing stronger of a drinkable nature had been provided.

The first speaker presented was N. T. Guernsey, of New York, general counsel of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. After telling a few jokes at the expense of his profession Mr. Guernsey read an extract from a speech which he had made at the Richmond banquet of the Pioneers two years ago, in which he predicted the telephone service had not reached the acme of its development. A member of a public service commission of one of the states had read his speech and had written to ask him if they expected to communicate with Mars by telephone.

"Since that time we have not communicated with Mars" he added, "but we have talked from New York to San Francisco across the continent, we have telephoned by wireless to Europe and Honolulu and have communicated with vessels at sea."

The second speaker, Murphey Candler, chairman of the Georgia railroad commission, paid a high compliment to the service and the impatience of people ern Bell Telephone company, which, he said, had always responded with cheerfulness and alacrity to the orders of the commission and seemed always ready to give the people the best service in its power. Considering the nature of her service and the impatience of people with whom she frequently had to deal, he declared that "central" must be a marvel of gentleness and patience and he wished to apologize publicly in the presence of the Pioneers for any time that he had ever displayed petulance or impatience to her when she was doing her best to give him the connection he asked for.

Telephone Officials Speak.

Other speakers among the telephone officials were F. H. Bethel, president of the eastern group of the Bell system, and L. B. McFarlane, president of the Bell system of Canada. All of the speakers agreed that the chief aim of the company in all of its branches was to serve its patrons, and that it had always been only too glad to heed any suggestion that had that end in view.

No account of the pioneers' banquet would be complete which did not include some mention of the beautiful and costly souvenirs which were presented to the guests. The first was a bronze medallion, the gift of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, made from the copper wire used in the first long distance telephone in use in this country, the line connecting New York and Boston. On one side of the medallion was an account of its history and on the other the figure in bas-relief of a lineman mending a broken wire in a heavy sleet storm.

The other souvenir was a handsome copy of Uncle Remus, the gift of the local telephone association, which was specially printed for the occasion. This gift was presented in a speech by Clark Howell, who gave the visitors an account of the beautiful traits of character of the author, with whom he had been intimately associated for many years.

Although crowded to the end of the program and consequently postponed to a late hour, came the singing of Fred Houser. Those who heard him and became acquainted with his genial good nature well understood why he had been so successful in getting big conventions such as the Pioneers to Atlanta, and why Vice President J. Epps Brown, in his speech of welcome delivered earlier in the day, had given the visitors carte blanche to take anything in Atlanta but Fred Houser.

At the conclusion of the banquet there was dancing, which prolonged the festivities into the wee morning hours.

Have a Fine Time.

Little routine business was transacted by the Telephone Pioneers at the Piedmont hotel Friday, for they did not come to Atlanta for business, but for a genuine old-time get-together meeting of old friends and new. For swapping of yarns of the line, and for having a good time generally, their convention outranks any that has been to this town for many moons.

The reading of the minutes of the last meeting was promptly dispensed with on the suggestion of the acting president, Thomas D. Lockwood, of Boston. Then the visitors were welcomed to Atlanta by Mayor James G. Woodward, who paid a warm tribute to the ladies and told of his long friendship for President W. T. Gentry, of the Southern Bell.

New officers, most of whom are only new to their terms and not to their offices, were chosen as follows: President, Theodore N. Vail; vice presidents, Thomas D. Lockwood, Edgar F. Sherwood, James T. Moran and Ben S. Read; treasurer, George D. Milner; executive committee, Frank A. Pinckernell, Richard T. McComas, Albert Lincoln Salt, James Robb and Charles H. Wilson.

One of the features of the meeting was the presence of W. T. Gentry, president of the Southern Bell, who disregarded the orders of his family and his doctor, and got down to the hotel to attend the meeting and shake hands with his old friends. He was given a cordial greeting. As he could not afford to ignore his physician entirely, however, he delegated Vice President J. Epps Brown to speak for him.

Mr. Brown told the visitors that he had authority from the mayor and Mr. Gentry to authorize them to take everything in sight with the exception of Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta Convention bureau. As he could not be replaced they were given liberty to use him all they would while here, but only on condition that they leave him behind when they should go away.

GOVERNMENT WATCHING MIGRATION OF NEGROES

Washington, October 27.—Both the departments of justice and the department of labor are watching closely the migration of southern negroes to northern industrial centers. The legal officers hope to check possible election frauds, while the labor authorities are interested primarily in preventing their federal employment service from being used to further migration schemes.

Attorney General Gregory, in addition to general instructions recently given to federal district attorneys in advance of the elections, has ordered a special inquiry into complaints that negroes are being sent in considerable numbers to doubtful states under promises of work at high wages.

District Attorney Miller, at Louisville, has been ordered to report the names, towns and destinations of all negroes or any other possible voters going from Kentucky, Alabama or any other part of the south, passing through Louisville in suspicious numbers. Other district attorneys in the south and middle states are understood to be under similar instructions.

All Reports Withheld.

Department of justice officials decline to talk on the ground that it might interfere with the government's plans, and all reports and correspondence are being withheld from publication.

The attorney general conferred today with his assistants on the subject of election frauds generally. He is giving the matter personal attention and under his direction special agents of the department are at the call of every district attorney desiring assistance. So far complaints have reached the department of alleged frauds or contemplated frauds affecting candidates for federal office in Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New York and Missouri.

The department of labor let it become known that it had issued orders designed to prevent the use of the federal employment service in assisting in the migration of large numbers of negroes from the southern states. Assistant Secretary Post said the department had no intention of becoming a party to schemes which might be devised for purposes of lowering the wages of labor or breaking strikes.

Much Information Collected.

At the same time it was made clear that in cases where investigation proved it to be a fact that skilled laborers were being hindered because of lack of unskilled assistants, and where there was legitimate work for negroes, efforts would be made to secure them just as any other class of labor would be secured.

Much information regarding the migration has been collected. In the south complaint is being made that the negroes are being taken to the north with promises of much higher wages and that if continued a serious shortage of labor may result. The labor department was represented today as feeling that any laborer is justified in going to that place where the wages are best, and that the place he leaves can remedy the situation by raising the scale.

The American Federation of Labor, according to Secretary Frank Morrison, also is watching the movement of negroes with the idea that "if it is not a scheme to get votes it is for the purpose of securing cheaper labor than is available at present." Representatives of the federation have been asked to observe and report on all large movements of negro labor.

Heavy Negro Registration.

Kansas City, Mo., October 27.—Negro registration in Kansas City this year has increased approximately 100 per cent over that of last year, according to a statement of a county official tonight. More than 8,000 negroes are registered—4,000 more than were on the books last year.

The county tax assessor said he had found 900 negroes registered who were not listed on the tax books. He said thei nvestigation would be continued.

COMMON LABOR FAMINE REPORTED IN CHICAGO

Chicago, October 27.—Chicago faces a famine in common labor, according to the inspection department of the Illinois state employment agency and Canal street near Madison, one of the greatest markets for common labor in the United States, is slowly being deserted by employment agents, who for years congregated in that locality.

Instead of men paying for positions, it was said today, railroad and other big employers are hiring agents who go out and search for men. Railroad laborers are receiving practically double the wages which prevailed a few years ago, according to officials of the state employment agency.

"You have added fresh and splendid glory to the flags of the army of Verdun. In the name of that army, I thank you. You have deserved well of your country."

DYNAMITING IS REPORTED

Three Attacks on Street Cars Friday Night.

More dynamiting was reported last night to the Georgia Railway and Power company, when car No. 200, on the West Fair line, ran over some explosive at the corner of West End avenue and Lee street at 9 o'clock. The glass panes of the car were shattered by the force of the concussion, but no one was hurt.

Another dynamite attack took place at 9:20 o'clock Friday night when car No. 160, on the main Decatur line, ran over dynamite at Murray Hill station. The explosion served to break all the windows of the car and jarred seats loose from the floor, but fortunately the seats were unoccupied and no one was hurt.

A third attempt took place at 12:10 o'clock this morning when a Ponce de Leon avenue car ran over a stick of dynamite in Druid Hills. The windows were shattered and the floor and platform loosened by the shock. No one was injured.

Another attack on the cars of the company occurred Friday afternoon when the College Park car, passing Wells' stop, was struck by rocks thrown, according to trolley men, from the Central railroad "dummy" which operates over that line between Atlanta and Jonesboro.

The railroad tracks and the street car tracks for some distance run parallel, within a few feet of each other, and according to street car officials for several days the rocks have been thrown at passing street cars by passengers on the dummy. A number of the missiles struck the car, but fortunately, no one was injured.

FEDERAL EXPERTS WILL DETERMINE CITY'S ALTITUDE

At the head of an engineering party of five, G. D. Cowie, Washington, D. C., with the United States coast and geodetic survey, arrived in Atlanta a few days ago, incidental to a complete and thorough survey of the entire area of the country, which, it is estimated, will consume thirty years in its completion.

The party will be here until about next Saturday, when it will shift to Birmingham, and while here it will correctly determine the altitude of Atlanta and the surrounding country, marking it in the city by bronze tablets to be attached to the face of the Terminal station, the city hall, the courthouse, the Masonic temple and the Georgia Tech, and the one at the capitol will be re-established.

The elevation as marked at the capitol was established by the geological survey several years ago.

INVITE KAPPA SIGMAS TO MEET IN ATLANTA

Miss Hazel Sutton, assistant secretary of the Atlanta Convention bureau, left Friday for Washington, D. C., where she will attend the annual meeting of the supreme executive committee of Kappa Sigma fraternity, for the purpose of inviting the 1917 biennial conclave to Atlanta.

In addition to the invitations from Governor Harris, Mayor Woodward, the Atlanta Convention bureau and the Atlanta Hotel Men's association, Miss Sutton carried with her a letter of invitation from the Atlanta Alumni chapter of Kappa Sigma, signed by Dr. H. E. Stockbridge, president, and Horace Russell, secretary; also one from the district grand master of the fraternity, Ed L. Sutton.

Miss Sutton attended the 1915 conclave of the fraternity in San Francisco and informally invited the next meeting. The Atlanta Alumni are very optimistic over their chances to secure the convention.

The supreme executive committee will be in session at the new Willard hotel in Washington for several days.

WOODROW WILSON CLUB IS ORGANIZED IN COBB

Marietta, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) Preparations to the end that Cobb county is to pile up her biggest democratic majority on November 7 were made in the courthouse here today, when a group of leading county politicians and representative business men met and formed a Woodrow Wilson club.

The meeting was called at the suggestion of Herbert Clay, solicitor general-elect of the Blue Ridge circuit. Gordon B. Gann was elected as chairman of the meeting with Harold Hawkins as secretary.

In view of the fact that at the last election five districts of Cobb county went republican, a committee of eight, with the chairman and secretary as members, were appointed to do personal work in all districts in the county in order to get every registered voter to the polls.

A monster rally will be held in Marietta on the night before election. It is planned to make this mass meeting the biggest thing of its kind ever held in Cobb county. It was suggested and the committee was instructed to work to the end that Hoke Smith or Hugh Dorsey, or both, might be obtained as speakers.

DEKALB COUNTY BALE BRINGS $169

That the price of cotton has advanced to a remarkable degree was proved Friday, when the Ingleside gin, of which J. T. Freeman is the proprietor, paid the record price of $169.60 for a bale of cotton weighing 685 pounds. The cotton was bought from T. L. Andrews, a farmer of DeKalb county.

LAWYERS ARE INVITED TO LECTURE AT EMORY

The second of the series of lectures to the students of Emory university being delivered by Bishop E. R. Hendrix was given Friday in the hall of the building of the School of Theology on the campus. The theme of the lecture was "Revelation Through Personality."

Bishop Hendrix will lecture today on the subject of "Christ's Pardoning Prerogative," an invitation being extended especially to the lawyers of the city to be present. This lecture will be delivered at the usual hour, 11:30 o'clock. It will be the last of the series, since Bishop Hendrix will not be present after Sunday, the occasion of his visit being the semi-annual meeting of the College of Bishops of the Methodist church, south, which closes its session today in the Druid Hills Methodist church.

GEORGIA-FLORIDA FAIR COMES TO CLOSE TODAY

Valdosta, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) Today proved to be one of the largest attended days of the Georgia-Florida fair. There were between 14,000 and 15,000 visitors in the grounds during the day and tonight. While the day had not been set aside as any special feature there were extraordinary special attractions in free acts, races and other events. Awarding prizes was completed yesterday and today, the crowds were afforded their first opportunity of viewing the exhibits and displays with the ribbons on them. The races today were of the same high grade which has made these events among the most interesting of the greatest Georgia-Florida fair.

Tomorrow closes the Georgia-Florida fair for this year. It has been the most successful fair ever held in Valdosta in every respect, and the hundreds of visitors have expressed themselves as highly pleased with the entire show.

BOARD VOTE WAS 9 TO 2, DECLARES A. C. BURTON

Following the story which appeared in Friday's Constitution regarding the emphatic denial by the board of education after investigating charges that two teachers in the Davis Street school had been teaching the pupils the Catholic religion, A. C. Burton, member of the board, stated that the vote taken showed nine voting for the resolution and two voting against, instead of nine for and one against, as was published.

"The two voting against the adoption of the resolution," stated Mr. Burton, "were Jesse Armistead and myself. We took the stand we did because we did not consider the charge worthy of recognition, in the first place, and in the second, we did not consider the investigation sufficient."

SHORTAGE OF SUGAR IN ATLANTA ON FRIDAY

Shortage of imports of raw sugar from Cuba has come near causing a sugar famine in Atlanta, according to the dealers who handle this commodity. The wholesale market Friday was woefully short and the city had practically to depend upon the supply in the hands of the retail merchants.

"I don't believe there is any more sugar in Atlanta than will be required today," stated C. B. Derby, in charge of this department of E. L. Adams & company.

The price of sugar in the Atlanta market Friday was $1 for eleven pounds. A year ago 18 pounds could be had for the same price.

WOMEN OF GEORGIA EXPECT LARGE SALE OF WILSON BUTTONS

Today is Woodrow Wilson day, and bright and early this morning many hundreds of young women and girls, from one corner of the state to the other, will be out prepared to spend the day in an organized button-selling, money-raising onslaught, each bent upon winning the state prize in the form of a new $20 gold coin.

Buttons for the day's use have been sent from Mrs. Emma T. Martin's headquarters, 316 Empire building, to every city and town in the state, and in each the work will be conducted systematically by an appointed supervisor—in practically every instance, a woman.

In Atlanta will be the following volunteer women managers, each having charge of a corps of contestants, and all working under the general direction of Mrs. Martin:

Mesdames C. Irvin Walker, E. H. Lawrence, B. F. Ulmer, Amelia Woodall, M. A. Hale, J. Cousins, R. E. White, D. A. Sims, W. W. Boulineau, J. Bonnell, G. M. Downs, J. H. Lockhart, Kate Harden and Misses Kate Koch, Sarah Terrell and Louise Causey.

There is still time for girls and young women to enter the contest by calling at the women's democratic headquarters.

A telegram was received Friday from Ben Lee Crew, field agent for the finance committee for Georgia, of the democratic national finance committee, from Jesup, Ga., ordering 200 buttons to be sent to Hawkinsville and fifty more for Jesup—the supply there having been found insufficient. He said he had been assured Brunswick will "respond with from $300 to $500."

May Locate at Dawson.

Dawson, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) One of the largest fertilizer manufacturing firms in the United States is negotiating for a site on which to erect a plant in Dawson. It will be equiped with all the latest improved machinery.

NO RELIEF FROM INTENSE ITCHING

Tells of "Wonderful Cure" by Resinol

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26.—"I had eczema in the worst way for six months. A small pimple on my right wrist kept spreading until it was up to my elbows. It came out in spots and some places were like water blisters. The itching was intense and I had no relief whatever. My fingers were all covered with cracks and pained me very badly. My hands and arms were all scales. The burning was so bad it felt as if I had been turned to a blister and the blister rubbed off. I tried everything I could hear about, including many prescriptions, but had no relief. As a last resort I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. The itching STOPPED AT ONCE. Before I had used Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap three days the redness had all gone. I could sleep nights—no itching or burning—and I felt like a new woman. People who knew me when I had this trouble were surprised at the wonderful cure." (Signed) Mrs. J. S. Walker, 97 Bartlett St., Charleston.

TURNED TO OLD FRIEND CARDUI

And Soon Was Perfectly Well and Strong, and Better Than She Had Ever Been, Says Kentucky Lady.

Narrows, Ky.—Mrs. C. F. Askins, of this place, writes: "About 15 years ago I had got into a run-down state, my back ached all the time, felt weak, my bones seemed to ache all over. I had weighed only 104 lbs. when I married, and never had been right robust since I reached womanhood . . . but after my marriage, I seemed to get worse all the time for two years . . . until at this time my brother's wife . . . advised me to take Cardui. Therefore, I began taking it, and in a short while, I began to improve, my health and strength began to be built up, and also my flesh. . . .

After my first child's birth, over two years had passed by, but the . . . didn't appear. My husband got me some medicine from our doctor, which did me no good, tho he intended it to bring the . . . about, for he said the blood was going to my head and causing it to ache, which also helped to make me so dizzy. . . . So I turned to my old friend Cardui and began taking it and . . . soon I was perfectly well and strong, gradually gained flesh until I weighed about 195 lbs., and was so stout and strong, better than I ever had been."

Cardui, used by thousands of women, and prescribed by physicians, must be a good medicine. Try it.

DEMOCRATS WILL CAPTURE INDIANA, PREDICTS HOBSON

J. R. A. Hobson, one of the visiting Telephone Pioneers, who was connected with the Southern Bell in Atlanta some years ago, but who now hails from Indiana, talked enthusiastically yesterday of the progress which the democrats are making in the middle west.

"It looks as though Wilson will carry Indiana," he said. "Tom Taggart says he will carry the state by 50,000 votes. I don't know about that, but there is a big swing towards the president and, if the election were held today, he would be a sure winner. Even the German vote will not be solidly republican this year as usual. On the other hand, the labor vote was never so united as it is now for Wilson. The rural voters, too, are not all republican this year."

FOUR HUNTERS INJURED WHEN AUTO CLIMBS BANK

Macon, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Clarence Sears, a Macon banker, and Major Crouch, of Griffin, were seriously injured, and Major McCullum, of Atlanta, and W. E. Small, of Macon, were bruised up considerably when a big touring car in which they were returning from a hunting trip went over an 18-foot embankment near Lakeside Park, last night. The embankment gave way under the weight of the car, which turned completely over, and which was destroyed by fire, which broke out shortly afterwards. Guns and other property to the value of $400 were also destroyed.

Mr. Sears sustained two broken ribs and a broken nose, while Major Crouch sustained a broken leg.

GOOD WINTER QUARTERS FOR TROOPS ON BORDER

San Antonio, Texas, October 27.—More than $1,000,000 has been made available by the war department for expenditure in providing winter quarters for troops stationed on the border. Southern department headquarters was advised to this effect today and ordered to proceed with the work at once.

Cantonments are to be erected for troops of the regular army engaged in border duty and provision has been made for framing and flooring the tents of national guard troops.

In authorizing the expenditure the war department acted on recommendations submitted by General Funston.

CONVICT, WHO ESCAPED, HELD IN PHILADELPHIA

According to a telegram received by Governor Nat E. Harris yesterday from a postoffice inspector at Philadelphia, James Rooney, alleged to be one of the most desperate yeggs in the country, who escaped from the state prison farm at Milledgeville in September, 1915, has been captured and is being held in the Pennsylvania city.

The informant suggested to the governor that he wire the governor of Pennsylvania to order Rooney held for requisition, which was done, and, armed with the necessary papers, an officer will be sent for him immediately.

Rooney escaped from prison, having served half of a year's sentence for blowing the safe of a bank at Sharon, Ga. Because of the great number of assumed names under which he formerly operated, he is known throughout the east and south as "The Man With Many Aliases."

LOAN BOARD HOLDS HEARING IN MACON

Macon, Rome and Augusta Ask for Federal Farm Bank—Atlanta Backs Macon's Appeal.

Macon, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Macon, Rome and Augusta, the three Georgia cities contending for the federal farm loan bank, laid their cases before the federal farm loan board, which met here today for the purpose of hearing the claims of the respective cities and arguments as to the best formation of the proposed district in this part of the country. The meeting brought together a number of distinguished men, including Governor Harris, Senator Hoke Smith, Congressmen Crisp, Wise, Hughes, Vinson and Lee. Only two members of the federal farm loan board were present, they being George W. Norris, federal farm loan commissioner, and W. H. A. Smith. Secretary McAdoo was in Tennessee campaigning for Wilson and Herbert Quick and Charles E. Lobdell, the other two members, had been called back to Washington.

Pleas that the bank be located within the borders of Georgia were made by Governor Harris, Senator Smith and Dr. A. M. Soule, president of the state college of agriculture, and through a brief filed by the Georgia Chamber of Commerce.

Macon's case was presented by Judge W. H. Felton, A. J. Evans of Fort Valley, Lee Council of Americus, B. W. Hunt of Eatonton and Harvie Jordan of Monticello. Rome's case was presented by Seaborn Wright, while James M. Hull, Jr., argued Augusta as the site for the bank.

Various Districts Urged.

The Macon backers urged South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama as the district; Rome urged South Carolina, Florida, Georgia and Tennessee, while Augusta wants North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. After the hearing this afternoon the members of the board left for Birmingham, where they will hold a hearing tomorrow. Governor Harris' plea to the board today was for Georgia in general and Macon in particular, while Senator Smith confined his remarks to urging the importance of locating the bank in Georgia, saying: "Georgia, our state, gentlemen, is the biggest state east of the Mississippi river in area and I feel like saying from every other standpoint. You can't shape a district in the southeastern part of this country without putting Georgia in the center; she naturally belongs there. The bank must be located in Georgia in the interest of the system."

Dr. A. M. Soule, president of the state college of agriculture, gave statistics as to the number of farms in Georgia, also as to the number of mortgaged and unmortgaged farms, and other statistics which the board asked that he file with them.

Lee G. Council, banker and cotton factor of Americus, stated that the rural credits would be the biggest incentive imaginable to the farmer. He was questioned by Judge Felton as to the negro getting money, and made the reply that in his bank, he knows no difference between the white and black as far as lending money is concerned.

Harvie Jordan, a banker of Monticello, and also a member of the United States commission which went to Europe to study the rural credits system of countries there, gave testimony in regard to long and short term loans, and also strongly indorsed Macon for one of the farm loan banks.

Afternoon Session.

The afternoon session of the board was devoted mainly to the presentation of Rome and Augusta's claims to the bank. Seaborn Wright, of Rome, in presenting the claim of his home city, argued that Rome, being in the center of a triangle drawn from Birmingham, Atlanta and Chattanooga, was the logical place for the bank. He spoke upon the mountain farmer, saying that he typified the men whom the government wished to aid in passing the rural credits act.

Mr. Wright declared that the grouping proposed by the Macon delegation was illogical, as states with different products should be put into the same section. He stated that the cotton states should be put in groups with other states where products were grain, tobacco and corn, such as Tennessee and Virginia.

James M. Hull, Jr., of Augusta, presented his home city's claims. He proposed that North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida be placed in one group. He argued, too, that Augusta was the geographical and geological center of that grouping.

Judge Henry Hammond, of the superior court of the Richmond circuit, followed Mr. Hull and in a five-minute address argued for Augusta. Carl Vinson representative from the Tenth district, stated that he will file a brief in behalf of Augusta before December 1. Commissioner Norris threw the meeting open, and allowed farmers to make talks.

Alex Smith, of Atlanta, representing the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, urged the selection of Macon. Mr. Smith gave a set of figures which he has placed on file with the farm loan board, showing the farming conditions in the district proposed by Macon, with especial reference to the increase in farming values shown during the past year.

MIND-READER IS HELD ON CHARGE OF THEFT

Moultrie, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) Anna Loving, "mind reader" with a circus that held forth here one day last week, was this morning bound over to the superior court on a charge of robbery by Justice J. O. Gibson. Bond was assessed at $200 and this amount was readily put up by the show woman. John Etheridge, a young farmer, was the prosecutor in the case. He insisted that the woman snatched a roll of bills—something over $140—from his hand as he was seeking change in a side show. The woman then disappeared behind a curtain, Etheridge declared. Miss Loving entered a stout denial of guilt and said that she had never seen Etheridge before. Several witnesses for the defense swore that they would not believe Etheridge under oath.

SHE RETURNS FROM TRIP TO FIND HUSBAND DEAD

Valdosta, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) W. P. Gillespie, age 47, a well-known cotton man of this city, was found dead in his room this afternoon by his wife. His death was due to a sudden attack of heart failure.

Mrs. Gillespie and two small children survive him. His wife had been away for several weeks and came home today to be at the fair for a day. When she went to the home her husband's mother told her he was asleep, and that he had not been feeling well. She stepped in the room, but thinking him asleep did not disturb him. When she called him she found he had been dead for several minutes.

THREE MEN ARE KILLED IN GEORGIA ROAD WRECK

Dave Printup, Engineer, W. H. Whiteside, Machinist, and Negro Fireman Die.

Augusta, Ga., October 27.—Engineer Dave Printup, Fireman John Curry, colored, and W. H. Whiteside, a machinist, all of Augusta, were instantly killed when Georgia railroad passenger train No. 1 was wrecked at the east switch at Union Point, Ga., this morning. All of the men were instantly killed, having been crushed underneath the engine and tender. The engine, tender, mail and baggage cars left the track. The cause of the accident is as yet unknown. Railroad officials state that there was some trouble with the switch, but do not think it was a split switch. An expressman was slightly injured, but no passengers were hurt. None of the passenger cars were derailed.

Printup had been with the Georgia railroad since 1883 and had amassed considerable wealth. He leaves a wife and several children.

Wrecking trains left here as early as possible for the scene and it is believed the track will be cleared by 5 o'clock.

DANGEROUS BUSINESS!

Thoroughly incensed over the acts of violence which have disturbed their neighborhood and interfered with traffic over the English avenue car line from time to time since the present strike of trolley employees was called, the Fifth Ward Improvement club, at its meeting, has adopted a vigorous and condemnatory set of resolutions.

The people, save the few actual violators of the law, are with the law, and may be relied upon by the authorities as being determinedly opposed to the commission of acts of violence against the peace and safety of the citizenship of Atlanta.

Who is it who is shooting up the trolley cars and placing dynamite on the tracks?

They are not the striking car men; because anti-violence and a campaign of peaceful, law-abiding means has formed the keynote of every meeting the organized strikers have held since the strike began. They have repeatedly passed resolutions right in line with those adopted by the Fifth Ward Improvement club. Their leaders have publicly counseled against violence, knowing that the adoption of such means is just the wrong way by which they might hope to attain that for which they contend.

The labor union sympathizers cannot be doing it, because they, too, have denounced such methods at every meeting.

No responsible man with family connections in Atlanta can be doing it, because he knows that every time a charge of dynamite explodes beneath a trolley car, neither the motorman nor the conductor, stationed in the extreme ends of the car, are so likely to be hurt as are the passengers, among whom might be one of the miscreant's own kin.

So who is doing it? Who is responsible for what any day may amount to assassination of helpless and unoffending citizens!

That is for the police to find out; and, once brought to book, the guilty should be made to suffer such punishment at the hands of the courts that others will be slow to emulate the course.

We say with the citizens of the fifth ward, and with the strikers, and with union labor generally—put such methods down!

WOMAN'S RIGHTS IN RUSSIA.

The "advanced woman" is now in evidence in Russia, as elsewhere, and there is less complaint among the more intelligent class of restricted opportunities as to the professions.

In a recent article in The Century, Richard Washburn Child told of the work that is being done by Russian women, not only in the professions, but in government service.

It is stated that women surgeons, in numbers, have rendered distinguished service in the various wars in which Russia has been engaged, notably in the Russo-Japanese war, and in the present conflict.

So determined were they to strike out for themselves on higher, uplifting lines, it is stated that when they were denied admission to the medical schools of their own country they went to foreign countries, where there were no such restrictions, to pursue their studies and to await the dawn of a better day for them at home.

What has been accomplished by them, through a more liberal policy, is summed up briefly, as follows:

> Today women physicians are as prominent as men, and in some cities there are many more female than male dentists. More than 62 per cent of the teachers in the zemstvo schools are women, and the census of 1897 showed that there were four women to every five men in the state and public service.

And the work of women for the uplift of the masses has exerted a wholesome influence for good, and has been largely instrumental in the working out of needed reforms.

When Vodka was banished from Russia and there were better living conditions among the poor because of happier homes, due to a steadier class of workers, the women aided the government, as best they could, in the work of putting down illicit traffic in the drink, so that now the sentiment of the people, since being greatly benefited by prohibition, is that "it must never come back!"

In every line of labor for the uplift the Russian women are at work. "And we shall all fight as soldiers," they say, "if the country's peril demands!"

ARMENIAN AND SYRIAN FUND.

Elsewhere on this page Dr. Ralph Saliba, a graduate from the Atlanta School of Medicine, and who has made a close study of conditions obtaining in the sorely-stricken fatherlands of the Armenians and Syrians and the causes which have brought such conditions about, presents a pathetic and most impressive appeal for funds with which to furnish succor for those miserable peoples.

The appeal merits careful attention, and should not be allowed to pass unanswered. Regardless of any contention that upon the shoulders of the warring nation or nations which produced the suffering should rest the responsibility for ameliorating it, this call of distress on behalf of the distraught Armenians and Syrians should not be permitted to fall upon a deaf ear.

These people, if there are any people on the face of the earth who have not contributed in any measure to the cause or the perpetuation of the struggle and their own grief—these peoples of all people had no hand in it. They are strictly innocent sufferers—and suffering terribly—from conditions not at all of their making. They are innocent victims of the horrible European holocaust.

And any relief that can be spared for them by the prosperous people of this land of plenty, peace and prosperity should be given freely and graciously to this worthy and humane cause.

A WORTHY WORK.

Recently an Atlanta man announced publicly his willingness to be one of 100 white citizens of the south to give each $100 toward a fund for the perpetuation of the work for the uplift of the colored race begun at Tuskegee, Ala., by the late Dr. Booker T. Washington.

Immediately the directors of Tuskegee institute, acting upon the suggestion, set the necessary machinery in motion, with such an end in view. Hopeful, and with good reasons, of receiving $100 contributions from the 100 southerners, the board's campaign embraces more than that, and donations in any denomination, and regardless of geography, are being received with gratitude.

That Dr. Washington was a genius, that he was actuated by the best of motives, that he sensed to the fullest the shortcomings of his race, that he hit upon the only feasible and practicable means of raising the standard of the negro—through industrial education—is universally recognized.

Nor can it be doubted that the institution he founded at Tuskegee, and which was guided by his genius and scholarship and skill up to the time of his recent taking off, did, in that comparatively short time, a wonderfully efficient work for the colored man. It was a distinct loss to the nation, especially to the south, when Washington was taken from that work by death; but from all accounts and from the results thus far, it is apparent that a wise selection was made in the choice of Robert R. Moton as principal of Tuskegee institute to take up the work where Washington left it.

The great industrial institution seems to be going ahead right along the lines planned and laid down by Washington, and it is doing good for the negro and for the south every day of its existence.

Just now quite an exodus of negroes from the south is going on to the north, due to the fact that in the north help is scarce and labor better paid in proportion. This is not good for the south; it is not good for the negro. The south is the natural and the proper place for the negro, and the negro is needed in the southern industries. When a colored laborer goes north to work the south loses.

The Tuskegee institute points a remedy. This, by making of the negro a better, more valuable workman—by making him a better farmer, a better blacksmith, a better worker in every way—and making him cleaner in his mind, his home and his person.

Notwithstanding Professor Lowell's theories as to life on Mars, there is a belief that the people of that planet got into a world-war and killed each other off.

JUST from GEORGIA

The Goody Word.

I.

It is seldom with a sigh
That October says "Good-by:"
"Gave you gold in measure free
So you would remember me!
That is parting rich! and so,
In a golden dream I go
Where the hills their torches flame,—
Even as in a dream I came!

II.

"When the winter nights are long,
Be my memory a song;
In the friendly firelight shine
Glimpse the realm that once was mine;
Though the home I then shall know
Is in the silences of Snow,
I shall share the feast I spread;
Bring the star-dreams to your bed!"

'Neath a far-remembered sky
So October breathes goodby.

Newspapers' Educative Influence.

In an article on "The Value of Newspapers and Periodicals," by J. Ellis Pope, in the current Emory Phoenix, the writer says of the newspaper as an aid to education:

"On the editorial pages of our best newspapers we obtain the thoughtful views of some of our most eminent men. Here perhaps the newspaper comes nearest to being literature. Today the best newspapers and other periodicals are indispensable and are classed among the most powerful agents of an education. This comes as the result of their easy circulation of current news, plus a general information through reading matter on a varied range of subjects—art, science, exploration, sport, and a hundred other domains. In fine, one is enabled to acquaint himself with the daily resume of the world's history."

War Illusions.

I.

The Turk, the Terrible, is "shod
With fire"—so war-tales run;
The kaiser kills "by will of God,"
While angels chant: "Well done!"
(How strange these battle-fancies seem!
What blood they shed! What dreams they dream!)

II.

A million homes in ashes—see!
For grief the heavens must fall!
Now God be praised for "Victory"
And for the war-kings all!
(A world lit by the battle-gleams . . .
God shield us from their blood-drenched dreams!)

"Dried Beef."

The "Old Colony Memorial" gets the credit for this one:

"The Hingham Agricultural and Horticultural society has had the query propounded to it as to the best method of drying off a cow. It would seem that as good a method as any would be to rub her down thoroughly with a heavy bath towel, and then sit her down by the kitchen range and put her feet in the oven."

The Boston Globe suggests that "a raincoat and rubbers will keep her dry," but our friend, Judd Lewis, caps the climax with: "Take her to a prohibition state!"

Here is a new "Dixie" variation from The Savannah Times:

"Dixie land meets every need,
We sell the cotton and the seed,
Look away, look away!
Fine old times in Dixie!

"Women dressin' fine and finer,
ChilIun's faces shine and shiner,
Look away, look away!
Fine old times in Dixie!

"Pop has bought a oughtmobile,
And he sings a good time spiel,
Look away, look away!

Scarce.

Says a Dalton Citizen philosopher:

"All rail-splitters cannot be president, but they are getting about as scarce; and rail-timber is getting about as scarce as presidential timber."

Stanton Day in Georgy.

(Written to the meter of F. L. Stanton's "Summertime in Georgy.")

It's Stanton Day in Georgy, you can hear the children sing,
And the sun is shining brighter, and the birds are on the wing;
There's a sort o' joyful feelin' stealin' over you, it seems,
And everyone is happy, a-dreamin' of his dreams!

Oh, Stanton Day in Georgy, how we love for you to come,
When of all the thanks we owe him, we can give him at least some!
He's made this whole world brighter by a-singin' of his songs,
And we hope he'll keep a-singin', keep a-singin' right along!

It's Stanton Day in Georgy, can't you feel it in the air?
It's kind o' brisk and lively like, and banishes all care.
He teaches us to live and laugh—and love—which is the best,
And how to understand our joys, and let our troubles rest.

It's Stanton Day in Georgy—and we wish that we could say
How very much we love him today, and every day!
He's our south's sweetest singer, and we hope he'll ever be Jest as happy as he's made us—which is happy as can be!

Graduate of Atlanta School Makes Appeal for Donations To Armenian Relief Fund

Following the proclamation of President Wilson, in which contributions are asked for a national war relief fund for the persecuted and suffering Armenians and Syrians, Dr. Ralph Saliba, well-known in this city, appeals to Atlanta to donate money to this cause.

Dr. Saliba is a graduate from the Atlanta School of Medicine, class of 1908, and is now with the American Apothecaries company, of New York. Since leaving Atlanta he has traveled extensively abroad, has made a particular study of conditions involving the Armenians and Syrians, and what he says is given from first-hand and authoritative information.

A Genuine Christian Charity.

In his statement and appeal to the people of Atlanta, Dr. Saliba says:

"President Wilson, with his proclamation for a national war relief for the Armenians and Syrians, struck the tenderest chord of a genuine Christian charity. The Syrians and Armenians, due to the hated policy of their government, are now the most distressed people in the world. The Turkish rule has never been friendly to its Christian subjects. The present war and Turkey's entrance into this mighty struggle gave those in control a strong excuse to increase their hateful treatment of Turkey's Christian subjects.

"The history of Armenia's suffering and persecution is too well known to be repeated, but the height of oppression of Christian Turkey was not reached until the present European struggle. The Christians of Turkey long ago found friendly feelings from Russia, England and France, who, since 1860, forced Turkey to give them better rules and this friendly attitude naturally made them lovers of these friendly nations, but since Turkey, supported by the mighty war machine of Germany, declared war on these nations, she also made it her aim to perish her Christian subjects for their love for her so-called enemies.

"The Armenians, the most intelligent and numerous Christian nation in Turkey, have been struck with the first fatal blow. One million and a half of Armenians have disappeared since Turkey's entrance into the war.

"Forced by the Turks from their homes and villages and exiled by millions to the vast and dreary desert of Arabia, without food or shelter, barefooted and almost naked, the men, women and children of Christian Armenia are dying by the thousands.

"The Christians of Syria and Mount Lebanon are also receiving the fatal blow and its little walled villages of huts, with green turf roofs, have been sacked of their pitiful possessions, its orange groves and fig orchards devastated and its inhabitants driven into the mountains, beset on all sides, and Turkey, fearing an open revolution in Syria, with the same method adopted as that used against Armenia, gave orders to stop all food material from the grain fields and to prevent its shipment to the people of Mount Lebanon. The fatal result was, from last reports coming from authentic sources, that no less than eighty thousand inhabitants of Syria and Mount Lebanon died from starvation and hunger.

The Call to America.

"Christian America! The Syrians and Armenians of Turkey are dying from hunger and starvation, and in the name of humanity appeal to Christian America for succor and help in the most miserable period of their national existence.

"America has always been found ready to lend a helping hand and it will, I feel sure, in this instance, respond to the call of its greatest president.

"President Wilson has succeeded, through diplomatic relations, in inducing Turkey to allow the Red Cross organization to go to the relief of Armenia and Syria. Appeals are now made through all churches and the charitable organizations of this country to raise a $5,000,000 fund for the relief of Armenia and Syria, and Atlanta must do its full part in this great charitable intention.

"Here is Atlanta's chance to maintain the fame of this city as one that is full of big, kind-hearted and magnanimous, charitable spirit."

Atlantans who would contribute to this fund may mail checks to the Fourth National bank, addressed to the Syrian and Armenian Relief Fund, or make subscriptions to the authorized committees of the Syrian colony of Atlanta.

Atlantans to Lead Welfare Conference In Macon Today

Atlantans will occupy the most prominent places on today's program at Georgia's first social welfare conference in session at Macon. Robert B. McCord and other Atlantans were heard from yesterday, and today they occupy more than half of the program, which is as follows:

Not until the executive committee meets tonight to present its report will be known what plans are favored for the establishment of a permanent headquarters for social welfare work in Georgia, but it is considered probable that Atlanta will be chosen.

A unique feature of Friday's program was the address of Mr. Lester C. Busch, secretary of the chamber of commerce of Thomasville. Mr. Busch was unable to appear in person at the conference, but sent his address on dictaphone records which were attached to an Edison machine. Owing to Mr. Busch's distinct voice and splendid address, his speech was easily heard and understood by the entire audience. Mr. Busch's duties in connection with the Thomas County fair at Thomasville made it impossible for him to attend the conference in Macon.

SOUTHERN METHODIST BISHOPS ARE HOLDING MEETING IN ATLANTA

Bishops of the southern Methodist church in attendance upon their annual conference in Atlanta were guests yesterday at an informal luncheon of the chamber of commerce. President V. H. Kriegshaber, of the chamber of commerce, presided and brief speeches were made by Bishops E. R. Hendrix and Warren A. Candler and by Mayor-elect Asa G. Candler and former Mayor Robert F. Maddox. Hope was expressed by the speakers that the bishops would find their stay in Atlanta so pleasant that they would make their conference here an annual event.

The following bishops were present: W. A. Candler, J. C. Kilgo, Charlotte, N. C.; E. R. Hendrix, Kansas City; E. E. Hoss, Muscogee, Okla.; James Atkins, Waynesville, N. C.; Hollins Denny, Richmond, Va.; W. B. Murrah, Memphis; E. D. Mouzon, Dallas, and J. H. McCoy, Birmingham.

The bishops held two sessions yesterday at the Druid Hills Methodist church. The meetings were executive, dealing with routine business of church administration.

Live Stock in the South.

(From The Washington Post.)

As a further effort to increase interest in stock raising and other diversification of farming, Georgia has arranged a products day, which will be celebrated throughout the state on November 18.

While stock raising and diversified farming will never supersede the production of cotton in the south, and while it is not desirable that the growing of cotton should ever be minimized, nevertheless the present tendency is of value to the nation as well as to the south.

The farmers of the south are well established financially. For the first time in nearly half a century cotton is selling above 17 cents a pound. Nor is this due wholly to the short crop. The crop is smaller than usual, but there have been many seasons when it was much smaller and the price many cents lower a pound.

The south, however, is systematizing. The much-abused phrase "scientific management" might almost be applied to the present development in the southern states. The diversification of crops and the raising of cattle is likely eventually to make cotton a surplus money crop for the south, not so much in the south as through the rest of the country.

The price of meat has been constantly rising. The production of cattle has not kept pace with the growing needs of the population. The south is adapted to this industry, and once it is established there it will relieve the general shortage and benefit consumers throughout the nation.

Working Man Who Does Not Vote for Wilson Is Blind to His Own Personal Interests

—A. F. Whitney, B. R. T.

To intensify and crystallize the pro-Wilson sentiment among the members of his organization central in Atlanta, and to discuss strictly organization business matters with them, A. F. Whitney, Chicago, first vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, came to Atlanta yesterday, and last night participated in a joint meeting of all of the three local lodges of the brotherhood, held in Fraternal hall, 429½ Marietta street. He will return home this morning.

"Illinois," said Mr. Whitney, "contains 10,000 organized trainmen and enginemen who are voters; and every man of them is going to vote for Wilson. Not only that, but every one of them virtually has pledged himself to take to the polls two, at least, and more, if possible, friends who perhaps would not vote otherwise. In Illinois, too, the wives and grown daughters of these men vote. In that state the organized labor vote controls the balance of power; and, therefore, it is generally conceded that Illinois is almost as safely for Wilson as Georgia is, because labor is convinced that it has a friend in the white house as long as Wilson remains president. This is something labor never has had before.

"I can say also," continued Mr. Whitney, "that Wilson will not lose one of the votes of the 400,000 members of the railroad brotherhoods, except in states having no absentee voter law and in consequence some of the men will be out on their runs and unable to get to the polls on election day. However, this will be largely overcome by reason of the fact that the men all are intent upon voting this year, and with few exceptions can make it possible to vote either early in the morning or late in the evening. And whether these men cannot themselves vote, their women folk, in suffrage states, and their friends can; and these friends—thousands of them—are going to vote the democratic ticket this fall for the first time in their lives, and solely because of the president's attitude toward organized labor and the common people and human rights. Labor is for him.

"In every section of the United States today are brotherhood officials doing precisely what I am doing on this trip: getting the members of their respective brotherhoods together and urging upon them, not only to vote themselves for Wilson, but each man to take it upon himself to see that two or three other men, outside of the organization, does likewise. That's going to mean something on election day. It is not my organization alone that is doing this, but all four of the brotherhoods are doing it, and practically every official of them is out in the field just as I am, and will be until the day of election.

"We feel that, with the eight-hour day law coming into effect next January, if Wilson is elected, it will not be tampered with in the interests of the railroads before that time, and that it will be given a fair trial and a rigid enforcement. On the other hand, we feel that if Hughes should be elected it will either be repealed by the next congress, or at any rate not given an honest, fair trial. Hughes is not the friend of the laboring man; his record as governor of New York proved him to be just the opposite. And you can rely upon it that, regardless of partisan politics, there will be only a negligible few laboring men in the United States who will vote for him.

"Our opinion is, and it is held by labor generally, I find, that the working man—republican, progressive or democrat—who does not vote for Wilson is blind to his own interests and inappreciative of a friend when he has one."

EPISCOPAL BISHOPS WARN AMERICANS

Against Race Antipathy and Unconsecrated Prosperity--Pastoral Letter Addressed to Episcopalians.

St. Louis, October 27.—Warning Americans against "the danger of race antipathy flaming into hatred," and against "unconsecrated prosperity which is bound to cause manhood to decay," the pastoral letter of the Protestant Episcopal church was read at the final joint session of the triennial convention here today

The letter is the message of the 108 bishops of the church to its communicants, and, under the church law, will be read in every Episcopalian church in the country.

Unlike most previous pastoral letters, it dealt with secular rather than ecclesiastical affairs. It reviewed conditions in the United States, in Europe and in the Orient and pointed out to this country the threat that lingers in a nationalism which assumes "the ugly role of group selfishness or false patriotism."

"Whatever dangers may lie lurking beyond our western horizon," it asserts, "can surely be averted by a spirit of justice which has not always prevailed in our dealings with the Orient."

Members of the church were admonished to "sanctify their wealth by offering freely of their substance to God's cause," it being added that "the wounds of Armenia, Poland and Belgium still lie gaping to the sky and offer their dumb appeal to God and man."

Summary of Letter.

The letter in part follows:

"America is involved today in world-wide confusion which finds its most acute expression in the battlefields of Europe. No self-isolation on our part is possible. The fortunes of the nations are interwoven as the threads of a tapestry.

"Interest can never again be sectional. The world is henseforth one, for the time being in a disturbed and suffering unity, in days to come in a unity where order and health will reign. Political expediency in wartime require neutrality of the state, but it cannot hold in leash the sympathies of the individual citizen. A man cannot be passionless and retain his manhood.

"The fact that our nation is not at war affords no grounds for smugness. It throws upon us the searching responsibility of exalting the true ideals of peace and incorporating them in our national life. Nationalsim too often assumes the ugly role of group selfishness or false patriotism. Local conditions determine what form this disease will take. Yonder it breaks forth in the scarlet rash of war: here in unconsecrated prosperity which is bound to cause manhood to decay.

"The nation that in some quarters, for the sake of gain, still chains to the wheels of industry the bodies and souls of little children: that allows human life to be sacrificed to the inventions of speed and production from lack of costly safeguards, that heeds but lisslessly the cry of the poor and oppressed, is not at peace, even though she be not at war. If presently we aspire to act as peacemakers in behalf of the warring nations, let our aspirations be tempered by the reflection that we are tainted with the common disease of which the eruption of war is a symptom, not a cause. God hates a godless and empty peace as much as He hates an unrighteous war.

Merest Pittance Given.

"Let it be sadly said that in proportion to her swollen wealth America's contribution to the innocent sufferers in Europe is the mere pittance.

"If America comes out of the world-disorder richer in purse and poorer in manhood, she will bring upon herself the penalty of a debased life or even of losing her very soul.

"No nation, least of all so vast and diversified a one as ours, is justified in trusting to chance for the creation of her national character She must expect of every one of her citizens some true form of national service, rendered according to the capacity of each. National preparedness is a clear duty. If this service assumes the form of military defense such can easily become a menace and will surely fall short of pacific effect, unless all the productive forces of manhood are at the same moment shaped into social order. The only thorough preparedness is that exemplified by Christ, the preparedness of character based upon life with God.

"The nations now at war have as much to teach us as we have to teach them. They rebuke our worship of comfort and money by the daily offering, upon a reeking altar of life and treasure; they declare to us that intoxicating liquor which is so freely and carelessly drunk in our land, is a national menace to be dispensed with at the cost of lowered revenue but with the gain of heightened virility; they teach us that food is the staff of physical life, not an invitation to daintiness and gluttony; they rebuke our spiritual poverty by the splendor of their spiritual eagerness which, out of their tragedy, brings new visions from God and breeds new virtues in men; they shame our self-indulgence by a degree of self-sacrifice that is royal.

"Greed of possessions of honor of pleasure have literally dethroned God from his supreme place among men. The sole cure is to exalt God.

Divided Church Powerless.

"Thus far the church has been only strong enough to consummate her ideal. Her own disunion dims her hopes and hinders her progress. A divided church is powerless to create an undivided world..

"We close our words of counsel and exhortation with our faces set toward the dawn. History makes plain to us that man's extremity is God's opportunity. Beneath every pall of tragedy lies hidden the glory of God —new visions of faith, new counsels of virtue—to be revealed to and discovered by those who look not at the things which are seen, but at things which are not seen, and who wrestle with God for a blessing."

The reading of the letter by the Rt. Rev. Charles H. Brent, bishop of the Philippines, was attended by ecclesiastical ceremonies.

All the parts of the report of the joint commission on the revision and enrichment of the prayer book, which had not been discussed during the convention in both houses of the convention, today were sent back to the commission to be reported again at the next convention. At the last moment the Rev. R. H. McKim, of Washington, D. C., urging more time for the consideration of the report, said it contained "a number of radical proposals which apparently tend to change the whole atmosphere of the church, making it a different communion from that in which I was ordained fifty years ago."

The house of bishops notified the house of deputies at the final session that it agreed with the lower house in practically all of the changes adopted in the morning and evening prayer service and in the psalter. Among these was the proposal to eliminate from the prayer for the president a plea for his long life and prosperity.

The house of bishops with the concurrence of the lower house today also recommitted a number of special prayers which had been suggested for the enrichment.

The commission on the book of common prayer reported that it was inexpedient at this time to consider a proposal to amend the prayer book title page by substituting the words "of the holy Catholic church" for the words "of the church."

No Suffragan Racial Bishops.

The house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church today failed to concur in the plan for the election of suffragan racial bishops as adopted by the house of deputies.

The bishops concurred in the resolution of the appointment of a commission to investigate rural life.

The house of bishops today issued a "notification" declaring that "all Christians are under a common obligation conscientiously to scrutinize the sources of their incomes and to give moral support to every just effort to secure better conditions and regular employment for all wage-earners."

"The notification" added that "the service of the community and the welfare of workers, not private profit, should be the aim of every industry and its justification, and that the church should seek constantly to keep this aim before the public mind."

The house of bishops also failed to concur in the resolution calling for national moving picture censorship.

$410,000 for Colleges.

New York, October 27.—The general education board today announced appropriations to colleges totalling $410,000, of which the George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn., receives $200,000, and the Calhoun colored school, Calhoun, Ala., and Fisk university Nashville, $5,000 each.

'WOODROW WILSON DAY' TO BE OBSERVED TODAY

President's Speech to Be Read at Many Meetings Throughout the Country.

Long Branch, N. J., October 27.—President Wilson returned here tonight from his trip to Cincinnati which marked his last appearance in the middle west before the election. He arrived here at 9:45 o'clock and motored directly to Shadow Lawn. At frequent intervals during the day he shook hands with crowds as he passed through West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

"If you make one speech here you will carry Pennsylvania," said a man in the crowd at Philadelphia.

"Maybe I'll carry it anyway," responded the president. The president's speeches between now and the election will be devoted chiefly to efforts to carry New York and his home state of New Jersey. Tomorrow afternoon he will speak at Shadow Lawn to an audience made up mostly of New Yorkers and next Wednesday and Thursday he will deliver addresses in Buffalo and New York. He will make his last speech of the campaign November 4 at a New Jersey celebration at Shadow Lawn.

The democratic national committee has made arrangements for the observance of "Woodrow Wilson day" tomorrow in cities and towns and rural communities. For the first time since the campaign opened the president has prepared his speech in advance and it is planned to have it read at various meetings.

Democratic leaders said tonight the meeting at Shadow Lawn will be the most largely attended of the campaign. Delegations of women and of working children are to be in the audience.

Wilson Led the Singing.

On Board President Wilson's Train, Cumberland, Md., October 27.—President Wilson stopped here for five minutes today en route to Long Branch, N. J. A band and a delegation of men carrying signs saying that labor is supporting Wilson were in the crowd.

"It is not so much that we are for Wilson as that Wilson is for us," read one sign. The president shook hands as rapidly as possible.

At Piedmont and Keyser, W. Va., Mr. Wilson shook hands with persons at the station. A group of students sang a school song as his train pulled in at Keyser. The president led the singing.

"That's bully," he said, "it sounds like old times to me."

ARREST EXPECTED IN MEXICAN PLOT

Secretary Baker Says Mexicans in United States Planned Border Raid—Denies Political Purpose in Making Charge.

Washington, October 27.—Secretary Baker left for Wilmington, Ohio, tonight to continue his campaign speaking without revealing either the sources or the exact nature of the information which impelled the war department yesterday to issue a statement saying it had knowledge that an attack on the border or American troops in Mexico was being planned by enemies of the administration's policy toward Mexico.

It was learned, however, that the suspicion was aroused here some days ago and that reports of an alleged raid conspiracy appearing in certain American newspapers were transmitted to the border for investigation. Agents of the department of justice and the treasury are supposed to have made the inquiry. Reports reaching Washington yesterday led the war secretary to confer with Secretary Lansing at the state department and issue the statement.

Suggestions that the statement was so worded as to virtually charge American political opponents of the administration of conspiring with the bandits caused both Secretary Baker and Secretary Lansing today to reiterate the latter's statement of last night that there was no intention to do such a thing. Both said it was impossible to conceive that any American could be involved in such an enterprise and that Mexicans now in the United States were responsible for the plot.

Arrest Is Probable.

It was said at both the state and war departments that to make public the nature of the information received would close a valuable channel through which watch could be kept on Mexican affairs. The arrest of some individual accused of complicity in the plot, it was stated, probably would be the public's next information on the subject.

High army officials have no doubt of the complete security of American forces in Mexico. General Pershing has nearly 12,000 men, it is understood, and his forces are said to be so disposed that any assault would be easily handled. There is every indication that attackers would be pursued whether the raid was directed against the troops in Mexico or a border town.

The state department received word today that the situation at Chihuahua City had been relieved by the arrival of Carranza troops from the south to augment General Trevino's garrison. Confirmation also came of General Trevino's denial that he was short of ammunition.

Reports from Mexico City say quiet has prevailed there and the departure of General Carranza for Queretaro has not been officially reported as yet, although press dispatches have stated that he left several days ago.

CLOSE WATCH KEPT ON BORDER.

El Paso, Texas, October 27.—Every ford, bridge and trail along the international border in this patrol district is being guarded by additional United States troops in compliance with Secretary of War Baker's warning to border commanders to be prepared for another Mexican bandit raid on the border.

The Fourth Ohio infantry was sent to the border patrol station east of El Paso today and will guard the fords at Ysleta, Fabens, Fort Hancock and San Elizario. Troop A of the First South Carolina cavalry has been ordered to Anapra, N. M., seven miles west of here, and infantry guards have been stationed at other crossings west and north of El Paso.

It was announced here today that these precautionary measures were being taken in compliance with the secretary's orders, although the border is safer from bandit attacks at this time than at any time since Villa started his banditry, it was said.

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN ATTACKS STATEMENT.

New York, October 27.—William R. Willcox, chairman of the republican national committee, issued a statement today in reference to Secretary Baker's statement.

"In view of Secretary Lansing's statement in the morning papers," said Chairman Willcox, "Mr. Baker was guilty either of amazing stupidity or of a disingenuous attempt to gain votes for Mr. Wilson by misrepresentation. If Mr. Lansing is quoted correctly, he went over the Baker statement before it was issued and the Baker statement, therefore, appears to be the joint product of Mr. Wilson's cabinet officers. There can be little doubt in the minds of anyone what this statement was designed to accomplish. The careful phrasing of Mr. Baker shows an attempt to make political capital out of what he appears to have regarded as an impending disaster on the Mexican border. This political capital was to be gained by charging that enemies of Mr. Wilson's policy with regard to Mexico were behind it and that the attempt was to take place between now and election. Other parts of Mr. Baker's statement are susceptible of the same interpretation.

"If, as Mr. Lansing says, Mr. Baker made his statement without comprehending that it was a veiled charge against American citizens, thereby implying the infamous guilt of treason, then Mr. Baker has once more displayed the remarkable bias of mind which prompted him to make this unpatriotic statement regarding revolutionary soldiers in his speech in Jersey City. If, on the other hand, Mr. Baker deliberately attempted to create political capital out of a national disaster his position is infamous."

Mr. Willcox added that if the war department had information in regard to the expected attack, "it is the duty of the administration to use every power of the government to find out the guilty ones and punish them."

ARMS SMUGGLED TO MEXICANS.

Atlantic City, N. J., October 27.—Reports that arms and ammunition had been smuggled into Mexico from the United States and insistence of the Mexican representatives that the United States government take steps to check the assistance they declare Villa and other bandits are thus receiving, featured the discussions today of the Mexican-American joint commission at the close of the first month's conference.

Discussion of these subjects took up much time of the commissioners, but they also discussed a suggestion of the American commissioners of a provision made in the agreement for the adoption of international quarantine regulations so broad in character that the American government may send into Mexico commissioners on sanitation who will work with Mexican agents in combatting disease.

Receipt of confirmed reports of deplorable sanitary conditions in many parts of Mexico caused the American representatives to suggest that international quarantine regulations be provided for.

The session closed today with assurance that a general agreement for the establishment of peace along the border and the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico is "well under way." The agreement, when signed, will include many things besides those directly connected with the patrol of the border.

STRONG GARRISON AT CHIHUAHUA CITY.

El Paso, Texas, October 27.—Chihuahua City is now garrisoned by a force of 11,000 men, according to a Carranza official who arrived here today from that city. He said General Maycotte recently arrived at Chihuahua City from Torreon bringing five aeroplanes, two English aviators and a force of Carranza troops for use against Villa.

An ore train was burned, railroad bridges were destroyed and the track of the Mexican Central railroad cut by bandits near Ortiz, about 40 miles south of Chihuahua City yesterday, an American who arrived here today from Chihuahua City reported.

The American also brought a report that Villa's troops were planning to attack Parral, Jiminez, Santa Rosalia and Torreon soon.

MRS. J. L. MATHIESON, LOCAL PIONEER, DIES

Mrs. Mathieson had lived at her home on the Peachtree road, near Buckhead, for over 45 years. She is survived by the following children: E. D. and George Mathieson, and Mrs. E. C. Walker, Mrs. W. A. Perry, Mrs. W. O. Peavy, Mrs. O. C. Walters and Mrs. J. L. Hammett. The funeral will be held Sunday from the residence. Interment will be in the Methodist churchyard at Sardis.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF SON AND MOTHER ARE HELD TOGETHER

The funerals of Mrs. V. B. Swann, who died Wednesday, and of her son, Thomas Cleveland Swann, who died Thursday from the shock received by the death of his mother, were held jointly Friday morning at 11 o'clock at the residence, 132 LaFrance drive, Edgewood. Rev. Firley Baum officiated. Interment was in West View cemetery.

OPPONENTS OF KNOTT WILL SUPPORT CATTS

Jacksonville, Fla., October 27.—Members of the state democratic executive committee who are not supporting the nominee, W. V. Knott, for governor, but who have avowed their allegiance to Sidney J. Catts, who first was declared the nominee, have been called to meet in special session here tomorrow. These members are in the minority.

It is said that the minority members are prepared to criticise the action of the majority in declaring Knott the nominee after the fight before the supreme court and that they also will request an accounting of funds of the committee.

Sounding Voters' Sentiments in 3,000 Communities

We are fortunate in having readers in every State in the Union, and, in fact, in every part of every State, and a few weeks ago, we called upon these friends to act as reporters or special correspondents and tell us how local feeling is running for and against the presidential candidates.

The two questions we asked our readers were: "Which was the most popular candidate in your neighborhood in 1912," and "Which is the most popular in 1916?"

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for October 28th, the feature-article gives an analysis of the replies received.

This "straw vote" is unique in that while it does not necessarily register the individual vote of those who responded, it is inclined more to reflect local feeling in the community in which the correspondent resides.

JACKETS BATTLE GENERALS GEORGIA MEETS NAVY VANDY TACKLES VIRGINIA OTHER GOOD GAMES

Season's Greatest Game Is Prospect

:: :: :: EVEN FIGHT EXPECTED :: :: ::

When Generals Face Jackets Today

By Dick Jemison.

The greatest football game of the season in Atlanta, with the possible exception of the Thanksgiving Day game, is the prospect at Grant field this afternoon, when the Washington and Lee Generals and the Tech Yellow Jackets meet at 2:30 o'clock.

Washington and Lee is coming to Atlanta primed for the Yellow Jackets and determined to give the local lads their first drubbing in two years. There are many fans that are inclined to believe that such will be the case.

But the Generals will face the best Tech team of the season in condition and ability to play the game, and their supporters, while not cock-sure that the Jackets will win as those on the other side are so inclined, they believe that their eleven will be in the fighting to the last minute.

From our point of view, it looks like a toss-up, a case of flip a coin and take your choice. If the Indian, Guyon, could play, we would be inclined to favor the Jackets, but as he cannot, we believe the dope points to an even battle, with the issue very doubtful.

How Sports View It.

From the streets last night we gained the information that the sporting fraternity considered the game an open argument, and it depended entirely as to where your sentiments were as to what the wager was.

But there were no odds, it was a case of even money take your pick. Prior to last night the Generals were the favorites, slightly. A few wagers giving Tech and seven points were registered, though the sums were small.

The weather man promises an ideal football day, dry and clear, with just enough chill in the air to remind the fans and the team that it is fall. If this proves true we are inclined to the Jackets' chances more than we would be if it should happen to be raining or the field heavy at game time.

That a record crowd is certain to attend goes without saying. Every one in this territory, not only in Atlanta and Georgia, but adjoining states are planning to attend the game, alumni of the two institutions in the south making reservations in advance.

Dope on Elevens.

The Generals have switched their line-up over the one originally announced. End Adams has been shifted to halfback, Tackle Bethel to end and Ignico, the star tackle of the Generals, has gone back to his place in the line.

This arrangement is said to give the Generals a strong defense and add a trifle more speed on the offense as well, with the ends protected by two heavy, experienced, fleet men.

From the Tech standpoint, the Jackets will line up stronger so far as condition is concerned than a week ago. Jim Senter's loss will be a keen one, though advanced more in condition and knowledge of the game, the Jackets should present even a more formidable front than they did last Saturday.

There will be little difference in the weight of the two elevens. What edge there will be will possibly be with the Jackets, but the entire eleven will show but one pound average more than the Generals, not enough to speak of. In experience and speed there is nothing to choose. In fact, everything points to a question of toss up on naming the winner in advance.

A Guyon Rumor?

There was a persistent rumor last night on the streets that the Indian, Guyon, would get into the game. In fact, several fans called on the phone and asked if it were true, and that they had heard several Tech students state positively that this was the case.

The Tech authorities, when questioned on the subject, however, denied the likelihood of his playing, pointing to the fact that no decision had yet been made on his case, and he could hardly be played while such a decision was pending.

A splendid set of officials have been selected for the game, and this end of the engagement should be so well looked after as to insure satisfaction for both sides and for the spectators.

The officials are: McGoffin (Michigan), referee; Journey (Pennsylvania), umpire; Phillips (Sewanee), field judge; Hamilton (Vanderbilt), head linesman.

The game will start at 2:30 o'clock and the same admission price as last Saturday will prevail: $1 general admission, $1.50 grandstand, $2 deserved grandstand and $5 auto reservations. Tickets can be purchased in advance at Elkin's.

Individual Battles.

There will be some individual battles during the game that should furnish plenty of thrills for the spectators.

The first one of these will be the contest in the middle of the line between Pierotti, regarded as the best center that Washington and Lee ever had, and Phillips, who is being regarded in the same capacity at Tech. The latter played rings around Tandy, of North Carolina, last Saturday, and his friends are expecting him to entertain Pierotti considerably this afternoon.

From the fans' standpoint, however, the duel between Captain Young, of Washington and Lee, and Strupper, of Tech, is the one that will interest the most. These fellows are great broken field runners and will do most of the sprinting for their sides. Besides, they will also do the kicking as well and the comparison will, of course, be made.

The comparison of generalship of Morrison and Bagley will also be watched as will their forward passing. Much will depend on the work of these two men, though in safety work Strupper will play back, being compared on return of punts with Bagley.

The battle between Tackles Ignico and Mauck will also be interesting. The big Atlantan will receive the severest test today, and his friends are expecting him to come through with flying colors.

The probable starting line-up of the two elevens will be as follows:

W. & L.	Positions.	TECH.
Larkin	L. E.	Dunwoody
Johnson	L. T.	Mauck
Bryan	L. G.	Fincher
Pierotti	C.	Philips
Moore	R. G.	Laing
Ignico	R. T.	Carpenter
Bethel	R. E.	Guill
Bagley	Q. B.	Morrison
Young (c)	L. H. B.	Strupper
Adams	R. H. B.	Johnston(c)
Sorrells	F. B.	Spence

IMPORTANT GAMES ON EASTERN GRIDS

Cornell-Harvard and Pittsburg-Penn Are the Biggest Games of the Day—Other Big Teams Worried.

New York, October 27.—The first month of eastern varsity football will end tomorrow with the playing of several games that will have an important bearing upon the final ranking of the elevens for the 1916 season. The game attracting the most attention is that between Cornell and Harvard. The Crimson fully appreciates the size of the task that confronts its players, for Cornell defeated the Crimson last season.

Cambridge is prepared for the hardest kind of match tomorrow and will have no excuses to offer should Cornell repeat its triumph. The Ithacans will send into the Harvard stadium one of the strongest elevens that has carried the Red and White in some years and one that should force Harvard to play its best football. The return of Percy Haughton to the position of head coach has raised Crimson hopes, but it is admitted that the teams are evenly matched.

Princeton, Yale and Pennsylvania, like Harvard, all face formidable foes. Dartmouth, although defeated by Georgetown a week ago, is a powerful combination likely to play harder with the memory of that upset fresh in mind. Coach Rush, of Princeton, is fully cognizant of the strength of the Hanover team, but with the Harvard and Yale games a few weeks away the Tigers cannot afford to expose the full measure of their offense.

Pennsylvania, with one defeat already marked against her, faces a most formidable adversary in the University of Pittsburg. The Panthers, under the coaching of Glenn Warner, had developed into a powerful scoring machine as the victory over Syracuse last Saturday demonstrated.

Yale hopes to check the victorious cheer of Washington and Jefferson at New Haven where, for the last two seasons, the visitors from Pennsylvania have triumphed over the Blue.

The invaders have been playing a remarkable offensive and defensive game and probably will give the Yale eleven a terrific battle, despite the marked improvement of the Blue over the form of the last few years.

The day also will be marked by two inter-sectional games of more than ordinary importance. In both cases eastern teams will journey to the middle west to meet opponents of that section. The heavy Syracuse combination will play Michigan at Ann Arbor and Tufts, the conqueror of Harvard, will play Indiana.

The schedules also bring together a number of other elevens which promise to be very evenly matched.

Rutgers and Brown should furnish fast, high-class football and the same is true of the games in which the Army and Navy appear; the Wesleyan-Amherst, Georgetown-Albright and Colgate-Springfield contests.

Georgia Eleven Hopes To Surprise the Navy; Low Score Is Expected

The east will be invaded again today by a southern eleven and southern football fans have hopes that there will be better returns than the previous invasions this season.

The University of Georgia is carrying the southern football banner into the east today when they line-up against the Navy eleven at Annapolis. That a stiff engagement is assured is certain.

The dope on this contest has the dopesters in the air. Talk to the Georgia eleven and you will think that they have no idea whatever in their heads but a victory and that is a splendid spirit for them to have.

We gave the Georgia eleven the once-over a couple of days this week and they have more drive in their backfield than any Georgia eleven we have seen in action, even including years when Bob McWhorter was at his best. Maybe this drive will win for them.

The Navy's strength can hardly be figured. They have not played with consistency this season. One Saturday they have looked as good as any team in the past and the next very poor. Their showing against Pittsburg stamped them as having a splendid team, but against West Virginia they did not look as formidable.

The general consensus of opinion seems to be that the score will be close and from interviewing numbers of football fans in Atlanta and Athens we have reached the general opinion of all that a very close score will result, with both sides scoring. The majority are inclined to give the Navy the edge.

Coach Cunningham, of the University, is not optimistic over the outcome as his team, its supporters or southern fans. He fears the Navy. With Garmany, McConnell and J. Reynolds all able to play he would think his chances equal to the Navy, but with these three stars out he is dubious as to the outcome.

Another thing, the long trip and the fact that the Auburn game immediately follows the Navy, it is certain that Georgia is not going to take any chances. Players are not going to be hammered in the game if in poor condition, as might be the case were Georgia playing Tech or Auburn, and the spirit will hardly be the same.

We are inclined to two beliefs: Either Navy will win two touchdowns to one or the score will be a tie. Take your choice.

VANDY FAVORITE OVER VIRGINIA

McGugin's Men Are Expected to Down the F. F. V's. and Make Up for Several Reversals.

Nashville, Tenn., October 27.—(Special.)—The biggest game of the season, local, outside of the Thanksgiving day argument between the Commodores and the Tigers will be staged here tomorrow when the Vanderbilt Commodores line up against the Virginia eleven.

The Commodores rule as the favorites in view of the defeat of the Virginians by the University of Georgia last Saturday and the believed strength of the local eleven as shown in the early season games.

The attack of the Commodores has never received a severe test this season, but against Virginia it will. However, the locals are believed strong enough defensively to stand off the Virginians, while there are many who are of the opinion that Vandy will run up at least three or four touchdowns.

This opinion is secured from the good condition the Commodores will be in, the psychology of the defeat by Georgia and the effect it will have on both elevens and the smarting of the Commodores under defeats of former years at the hands of the Charlottesville eleven.

L. S. U.'S STRENGTH WILL BE SEEN TODAY

The Louisiana State university eleven will face its first real test of the season today and whether their early season showing is an evidence of their real strength or not will be known tonight.

The same is true of their opponents, the Sewanee Tigers, who are one of the undefeated southern elevens still in the running for the southern title.

This game will therefore determine whether or not these elevens continue in the running.

CONFERENCE TITLE AT STAKE TODAY

Minnesota-Iowa and Chicago-Wisconsin Are Big Games of the Day.

Chicago, October 27.—Geared up for speed and high scoring power, the University of Minnesota eleven will swing into action tomorrow in its first game of the "big nine" championship football race. The strong Iowa team will be Minnesota's opponent.

This game and the clash between Chicago and Wisconsin are the most important contests involving western conference honors on tomorrow's schedule. Neither Minnesota nor Wisconsin has been beaten this season.

Illinois must defeat Purdue tomorrow to get into a possible tie for the conference title. Coach Zuppke's players are not discouraged over the setback given them by Ohio State a week ago.

Northwestern, which triumphed over Chicago a week ago for the first time in fifteen years, will face Drake university's team at Evanston.

Coach of the Generals Is Idol of W. & L. Students

By Reuben A. Lewis.

Jogger Elcock, the coach of the Generals, is the idol of the student body of Washington and Lee.

His record as a football mentor has been such that, at the end of the 1915 campaign, he was offered the head coaching position with six big northern universities. For directing the Generals for nine weeks he receives the fattest salary paid a coach in the south, a sum in excess of $3,000.

In three years Elcock has received a beaten team from the gridiron but two times. Last year Cornell handed the Generals a walloping, but during that clash Washington and Lee scored more points than the combined assaults of Michigan, Harvard, Gettysburg, Oberlin, Williams and Virginia Polytechnic institute had netted them against the champions. This season Army, in the second game, scored a victory, 13 to 7.

But Elcock is determined to close his career as a gridiron director with a big record. It may be remembered that his first achievement at football came at Dartmouth. As a guard he played on the varsity eleven. The next season he served as assistant coach to Cavanaugh and it was that year that Dartmouth defeated Princeton and produced one of the best elevens in the east.

Elcock is a fighter and believes in hard, clean football. He is the boss of the team. There is no mistake about that. He does not believe in training tables. That was abolished in 1915. He is a wily coach, and is one of the leading exponents of the forward pass, and, unless the Generals shift to the line plays that have been the means of gaining much ground against Rutgers and Roanoke, the Atlanta football fans will see a siege of the aerial shoots. Since September every linesman, with the exception of the center, has been training to catch the passes. There is no telling who will record gains on forward passes.

Elcock believes that an "excuse me" has no place on the gridiron.

"I don't want any man on my team," Elcock often says, "who is afraid to hit a man hard when he tackles. Football is a rough sport. If you can't stand the gaff, don't get into it." An instance when this feeling was put into practice was displayed in 1914. In practice Jess Wadsworth, a scrub end, tackled Jiggs Donahue, the captain of the team, so viciously that the captain's knee was wrenched. He was laid out of several games on account of the injury. But Elcock patted Wadsworth on the back, told him "that's the way to tackle 'em; hit 'em so hard that you'll tear them to pieces." "Tough luck," he said to Donahue, philosophically.

Elcock has faced a hard season this year, in that he lost, unexpectedly, a number of stars. Ted Shultz, a 6 feet 4 tackle, weighing 190 pounds, and captain in 1915, played out his four years. John Harrison, the right end, graduated. These men were not counted upon.

But John Barrett, the star halfback, who ran 100 yards against Cornell to touchdown, unexpectedly did not return. He decided to enter business. Buck Sweetland, one of the best halfbacks in the east last season, likewise failed to return. Jim Izard, a rattling good end, was missing when the season opened. Sweetland and Izard were sophomores in 1915 and Barrett was a freshman.

To replace these stars, Elcock has had a tough job, for the material has not been what it might have been. But, by shifting Ignico to the backfield, shunting Crile to end and making other changes, the General coach has succeeded in evolving an eleven that is expected to give Georgia Tech a pretty stiff fight.

One thing is outstanding, if Heisman puts anything over Elcock in a technical way, he will be going some.

CAPTAIN OF GENERALS IS MARVEL OF DIXIE

Washington and Lee Believe They Have Best All-Round Athlete in South.

By Reuben A. Lewis.

Atlanta followers of the gridiron will see a marvel in action against Tech today. For "marvel" is no misnomer for Harry Killinger Young, the fleet-footed halfback of the invading hordes of Washington and Lee.

Young, the captain of the Generals, is a wonder. Before the close of his college career in 1917 he will have served as captain of the four major sports—football, baseball, basketball and track. Despite the difference that is involved in the four sports, Young is a star in every one.

A recital of facts will lend this impression.

Afoot. Young has never seen his equal on the gridiron. He has a record of 9 4-5 seconds for running 100 yards. The 220-yard run he has stepped off in 21 3-5 seconds.

Baseball Star.

At baseball he has received major league offers from four teams in the big leagues. In college circles he has hit over .300 for three consecutive years.

At football he led Washington and Lee in point scoring in 1913 and 1914. He also held records during these campaigns of registering the longest run in every game in which he participated. In 1915 he played in only four games as against the Virginia Polytechnic institute eleven he cracked a shoulder bone. But, when the total points scored by the Generals were compiled, he ranked second.

The captain of the Generals is one of the prettiest players to watch that the gridiron has ever produced. As a punter he is consistent with his general reputation. He is considered one of the most skillful place punters in the game. Besides doing the punting, he is a forward passer. Versatility is his middle name.

In basketball the phenom from Huntington, W. Va., is likewise a star. Last year he captained the Generals and played forward and guard. The year before he served at guard and scored more field goals than did either of the forwards.

These new achievements will explain in some measure why Washington and Lee is looking forward to Young against Georgia Tech. Although reports of the speed of Strupper have been heard in the camp of the Generals, he will have to hike to come up to the fleeting proclivities of "Cy."

To accomplish these feats Young has not had the sturdy frame of a Thorpe or a Barrett. He is not six feet tall. He does not depend upon the bulk of two hundred pounds for his drive. To see the captain of the Generals upon the streets, a casual observer would never believe that such an easy-going, average-sized sort of a chap was a marvel, but nevertheless he is.

Young will soon be 22 years old. He weighs slightly over 168 pounds and is 5 feet 11 inches tall. He was born in West Virginia and lives in Huntington.

Popular Student.

In face of these athletic triumphs, it would be only natural for a person to assume that the subject of this sketch is aware of his achievements. Young, among the student body of Washington and Lee, is considered to be one of the most modest men in the university. Last year he was elected, by a vast majority, to the highest honor at the bestowal of the undergraduates—president of final week. And, in wooing Terpsichore, the same "Cy" is a star, for he is graceful and lithe on the dance floor.

But Young is just one of several Generals who are noteworthy. Georgia Tech is not underestimated by Washington and Lee. The Generals have been watching the Yellow Jackets every game. Elcock, the coach, is of the opinion that Tech has the strongest team in the south, and so has told his henchmen. Captain Young has expressed the opinion that he would rather have the honor of downing Tech than any other team on the 1916 schedule.

It is the first time in years that Washington and Lee has been south, and the Generals are determined to impress the southerners with their relative strength. So when the referee's whistle blows Saturday a hectic clash will be on.

VIRGINIA HAS NEW LINE-UP FOR GAME AGAINST VANDERBILT

University, Va., October 27.—(Special.)—The Virginia team, which meets Vanderbilt Saturday in Nashville, left here last night for the Tennessee capital. The team that meets the Commodores tomorrow will be a different team from the one that went down in defeat before the University of Georgia last Saturday.

Billy Gobch, who has been out of the game ever since the Yale contest, has recovered from his injury and will be seen at halfback in the annual clash with the Black and Gold. Jim White has again been shifted from quarter to left end, and Carrington is now running the team, with Wagenknight and C. White as capable substitutes. Carrington has had considerable experience at quarter, both on the Hampden-Sidney team and on the Virginia scrubs last year. C. White has been showing good form in the scrimmages.

Kinsolving, who played end the first part of the season, has been showing good form at halfback, particularly in getting off forward passes. Ed Smith, captain of the baseball team, has been out for halfback the past two weeks and is showing marked improvement.

Birmingham Football Fans Are Coming Strong Today To Generals-Jackets Game

Birmingham, Ala., October 27.—(Special.)—The Washington and Lee-Georgia Tech battle is attracting followers of football from all parts of Alabama. Though Auburn and Mississippi A. & M. are scheduled to play in Birmingham Saturday, a large number of gridiron fans will journey to Atlanta for the big game.

The Washington and Lee alumni of Birmingham have chartered a special Pullman that will bring them to the scene of battle on Friday night. Thirty alumni have signed up for reservations.

They will be joined in Birmingham by alumni from Marion, Montgomery and other points in the state, who will come to Atlanta on the same train.

From Chattanooga advice has been received that the Tennessee alumni of the Virginia school have planned to join the exodus from neighboring states to the capital of Georgia.

In addition to the alumni of the Lexington institution, a number of Tech alumni have announced that they would see the clash. Even free lances have stated that they would see the game. In Birmingham the Tech-Washington and Lee game is regarded as being on a par with the Vanderbilt-Auburn classic.

BOYS' HIGH PLAYS DARLINGTON HIGH TODAY IN ROME

The Boys' High school team will play the Darlington team in Rome today. This will be one of the best games of the prep league.

Five of their best men—A. Slaton, the manager, and B. Dames, the captain, both have broken one of their hands; Collins, Tinsley and Lemon will not be able to go, so Boys' High has a very patched-up team, but, nevertheless, they hope to beat the Darlington boys.

Those going down on the high school team are Torrance, right end; A. Hopkins, right tackle; Beewick, right guard; Davis, center; Barnes, left guard; Richardson, left tackle; Hubert, left end; Knox, right halfback; J. Hopkins, quarterback; Lewis, fullback; Kendrick, left halfback, and J. Slaton, Mallard, Renton and Wood, substitutes.

The Boys' High school team will play the Gainesville High school Saturday morning, November 4, at Grant field. This is the first game that the Atlanta team has played at home, and they expect a large attendance.

Knockout Eggers Here With Manager Jacobs; Pass Through Atlanta

Johnny "Knockout" Eggers and his manager, Billy Jacobs, passed through Atlanta last night en route to New Orleans, where the little New Yorker is scheduled to box a twenty-round engagement with Pete Hermann, November 6.

Eggers looked to be in splendid condition and expressed a wish while here to again box in Atlanta, where he has many friends.

FOOTBALL RESULTS

Bainbridge 6, Dothan 6.

Bainbridge, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Bainbridge High school and Dothan High school played here today to a 6 to 6 tie in one of the prettiest games ever seen on the local gridiron. After keeping the ball in Dothan's territory nearly all the game, Bainbridge carried it over for their touchdown in the last minute of play. The work of E. Hellon, of Bainbridge, was the feature.

Tifton 26, Moultrie 0.

Tifton, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Tifton High school out from Moultrie High school on the Tifton athletic field this afternoon, 26 to 0. Tifton made first touchdown in five minutes, when Mitchell intercepted a forward pass and made 35 yards. The ball was in Moultrie's territory the greater part of the game. The game was clean throughout, with no kicking on official decisions. Tifton's touchdowns were made by Mitchell 1, J. Parker 2, C. Parker 1.

Commerce Wins.

Commerce, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Commerce High school this afternoon won from the Eighth District Agricultural and Mechanical boys, the score being 47 to 0. The Madison boys played a good defensive game, but seemed unable to advance the ball. C. Sims, Carson and Hardman showed well for Commerce. Captain Davis suffered a fractured shoulder in the last quarter and will be out several weeks.

Tulane 13, Miss. College 3.

Jackson, Miss., October 27.—A fight in which players on both sides and more than a hundred spectators participated, broke up the Tulane-Mississippi college game here today shortly after the fourth period had started. The game was called as soon as quiet was restored and the official scorekeeper declared Tulane the victor, 13 to 3. The fight started when rival players endeavored to settle a dispute with their fists after a tackle at the beginning of the fourth quarter. Almost instantly the members of both teams were engaged in a rough and tumble fight, sympathizers of both sides from among the spectators joining in. Police and gridiron officials finally restored quiet before anyone was seriously injured.

RACE HORSE IS NAMED FOR "RABBIT" CURRY

Nashville, Tenn., October 27.—(Special.)—A signal honor, that of having a race horse named for him, has come to "Rabbit" Curry, the brilliant quarterback of the Vanderbilt eleven. Harry Stuckey, of Lexington, Ky., today secured permission through a representative to name a colt out of Queen's Daughter and by Helmet after the Commodore captain. Stuckey saw Curry play for the first time against Kentucky State in Lexington and became so impressed with his fleet-footedness that he became anxious to have his Helmet colt bear the name, Rabbit Curry. Curry, blushingly, gave his consent this afternoon.

Ten-Mile Race.

New York, October 27.—Thirteen long distance runners will compete here tomorrow in the ten-mile race for the National A. A. U. championship title. Hannes Kolehmainen, the title holder, will run unattached. W. J. Kennedy, formerly of Chicago, also will run unattached, and with the exception of James Henigan, Dorchester club, Malden, Mass., all the other runners will represent clubs in the Metropolitan district.

WOMAN WANTS TO KILL HER NEGRO ASSAILANT

Birmingham, Ala., October 27.—Police officers fear trouble may break out any minute in South Woodlawn tonight, where a well-known white woman was attacked in her home yesterday afternoon by a negro, who escaped. Four different negroes were arrested on suspicion today and carried before the victim for identification, but in each case she failed to identify them.

Rumors were current tonight that groups of men were moving about the wilds near Woodlawn, and that they knew the name of the guilty negro and had him located. Officers do not conceal their belief that the negro will never be brought in alive.

The woman told the police that if the negro is captured she wants him brought to her so she can kill him herself.

"If the negro is captured," she told the police, "I want you to bring him to me, so I can kill him myself—that is, if members of the posse are not men enough to do so."

The woman decribing to the police how the negro attacked her, said her assailant after threatening to kill her if she screamed, struck her on the head with the butt of a pistol. Her three-year-old daughter, who was asleep at the time, was awakened by the noise, she said, and when the child screamed the negro struck her daughter on the head, cutting a gash over the right eye. After that the woman said she lost consciousness.

FOR LIFE OF THE BAT STRONG PLEA IS MADE

Cincinnati, Ohio October 27.—Charles A. R. Campbell, of San Antonio, Texas, pleaded for the life of the bat at the closing session of the annual convention of the American Public Health association here today. Campbell said it is known that the bat feeds almost exclusively on mosquitoes and for that reason should be protected, as mosquitoes spread malaria. He advocated that laws be passed by the various states prohibiting the killing of bats.

WIRELESS AMATEURS IN ATLANTA RECEIVE WILSON'S MESSAGE

The Atlanta wireless amateurs received the presidential relay message last night at 10:50 o'clock at the Georgia Tech station. The message read as follows:

"Neither seek the favor nor the displeasure of that small alien element amongst us, which puts loyalty to a foreign power before loyalty to the United States.

(Signed) "WOODROW WILSON."

This is the message that all amateurs have been eagerly looking forward to, and is being transmitted across the country by the Amateurs of America.

PROTECTIVE TARIFF URGED BY FAIRBANKS

Hopkinsville, Ky., October 27.—In an address here tonight and at other western Kentucky towns during the day, Charles W. Fairbanks, republican nominee for the vice presidency, gave his chief attention to what he declared "the urgent necessity" for a protective tariff.

In this connection he said here tonight:

"The measure of prosperity now existing in America is not due to the principles of the democratic party, but exists in spite of them. The election of Charles E. Hughes will bring us a prosperity based upon right principles, the value of which has been established by years of experience."

Immediately after the close of his address here tonight, Mr. Fairbanks left for Louisville. He will start from there in the morning for a second swing through this end of the state.

CHAPMAN RESIDENCE ENTERED BY BURGLARS

The home of E. M. Chapman at 116 Tenth street was burglarized Friday afternoon about 6 o'clock, the thief securing a gold stick pin and a locket and chain, valued at approximately $50. It is said that Mrs. Chapman had stepped out of the house for a few minutes, and during her absence the thief entered through a side window, making the haul and leaving no clue as to his identity.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF THE COTTON MARKET

New York, October 27.—Except during times of extraordinary excitement the cotton trade has seldom, if ever, witnessed sensational advances and violent fluctuations as those of the past week in the contract markets. The bull movement, which had been interrupted by rather sharp reactions toward the close of the previous week, was renewed on Monday with the advance attracting broadening outside demand, and with prices on Wednesday selling at 19.80 for January and 20.04 for May contracts. This represented an advance of practically $10 per bale from the low level of October 9, and the sight of the 20-cent level was evidently the signal for heavy general realizing. For a time offerings were well taken, but they rapidly increased in volume and the market weakened very suddenly during Wednesday's late trading. By Thursday the break had extended to 18.55 for January and 18.90 for May, or about 115 to 125 points from the high level of the week. The market then showed more disposition to steady, and while rallies of 50 or 60 points met renewed liquidation with the tone still much unsettled, trading was decidedly less active toward the end of the week with excitement evidently subsiding.

The opening advance of Wednesday reflected a bullish view of the census report showing 7,291,733 bales ginned to October 18, as private returns previously published had not indicated a ginning of less than 7,400,000 bales. The figures, however, were not considered conclusive as an indication of ultimate yield and in addition to the resulting there was considerable local selling on the decline. This seemed to be partly inspired by apprehensions that the big break in futures would lead to spot liquidation or reselling by speculative holders of cotton goods, and in some quarters there was a tendency to increase estimates of the crop. The bulk of the selling, however, was attributed to the liquidation of western and Wall street longs while hedging was not so much in evidence, and the rallies toward the end of the week were encouraged by bullish southern spot advices.

Dun's Review.

New York, October 27.—Dun's Review tomorrow will say:

"Disproportion between demand and supply is more pronounced than at any previous time and the rise in prices continues apace. Widely divergent lines exhibit steadily increasing strength and though most commodities are already at an extreme position, there is no sign that the crest has yet been reached. In steel and iron, in textiles and in other branches the eagerness of buyers is regarded as foreshadowing still further advances, the growing scarcity of materials and products impelling urgent efforts to cover far distant requirements. Evidence of expansion are visible on every hand, but many manufacturers and merchants, with commendable judgment and prudence, endeavor to repress demand rather than encourage it, and credits are closely scanned. Obligations generally, however, are met with greater promptness and preliminary returns of October failures indicate the smallest mortality for the period since 1912 in spite of the increase in new enterprises.

"Weekly bank clearings, $5,279,676,582."

PUBLIC INTEREST SHOWN IN MARKET

Outlook Seems More Hopeful—Assured Success of New British Loan Proves Powerful Stimulant.

New York, October 27.—There were indications in today's trading, the broadest and most active since Monday, of a revival of public interest, that element having been conspicuously lacking for almost a fortnight. Sentiment seemed to be more hopeful regarding coming events, the assured success of the new British loan proving a powerful stimulant.

Professionals dominated the market, however, this being clearly demonstrated by the activity of pools and cliques in the low priced rails and the specialties embraced in the sugar, paper, leather and minor industrial groups.

There were numerous new records, Bethlehem Steel leading on its further rise of 8 points to 650. Other striking gains and new maximums were Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, which rose 9⅞ to 104⅞; Utah Copper, 4⅞ to 106; Cuba Cane Sugar, 2⅜ to 75¼; Central Leather, 4 to 94⅝; American Writing Paper preferred, 2¾ to 48, and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, 2, to 126¼. Further advances of 1 to 4 points were registered by the non-dividend rails, latest accessions to that division including Wisconsin Central, Iowa Central, Ontario and Western, and Chicago and Alton. Rock Island was again a strong feature, regaining much of yesterday's decline, but yielding at the close.

Among the less active specialties in which advances ran from 2 to 4 points were Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke, American Snuff and Cast Iron Pipe preferred, while Cuban American Sugar rose 10 points.

Recessions of fractions to over a point set in on realizing during the last hour, but coppers moved controlrily under leadership of Utah. Steel yielded a full point, but closed at a net gain of almost that much. Total sales of stocks amounted to 1,280,000 shares.

No material alteration was shown in foreign exchange rates, receipts of another large consignment of British gold leaving Sterling bills unchanged.

Bonds were more steady on reduced offerings of international issues. Total sales, par value, $6,470,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Coffee.

New York, October 27.—An early advance was followed by quite a sharp break in the market for coffee futures here today as a result of liquidation which was partly in the form of stop orders. The market opened unchanged to 6 points higher on some further support from commission house sources, but the buying was by no means active and the decline later in the day carried March contracts off from 8.60 to 8.50, while July broke from 8.85 to 8.70. The close was 7 to 9 points net lower. Sales were reported of 40,250.

Closed steady.

New York, October 27.—The cotton market was less active today and there was not so much excitement, but fluctuations were extremely nervous and irregular. January contracts sold up from 18.96 to 19.23, but broke to 18.90 in the late trading and closed at 19.03. The general list closed steady, net 9 points higher to 1 point lower with near months relatively firm.

Liverpool was relatively steady, private cables attributing the fact to continental buying and covering against 9,000 bales sunk with a British steamer. The opening here was 9 points higher to 1 point lower with the near months showing advances in sympathy with the cables, but the close was barely steady and prices soon broke to a net loss of 3 to 6 points. This was due to realizing by buyers on the break of yesterday afternoon and a renewal of scattering pressure, but around 19.10 for March and 19.26 for May the market met more support. It looked as though the opening bulge had not brought out as much long cotton as previously since the big break of Wednesday. This appealed to some around the ring as reflecting a stronger technical position and for a time during the morning prices showed considerable strength. Houses with western connections were credited with buying pretty freely on the advance, which carried March up to 19.38 and May to 19.50 or about 19 to 25 points higher and something like 60 points above the low level of yesterday afternoon. There was then a renewal of liquidation, however, part of which seemed to come from recent buyers and the market was very unsettled during the afternoon. Uneasiness over shipping conditions based on apprehensions of increased submarine activity seemed to add somewhat to the nervousness of sentiment and the late break carried prices into new low ground for the day, with March selling at 19.04 and May 19.18. Rallies followed on bullish southern spot advices and the close showed recoveries of 12 or 13 points from the lowest.

Spot cotton quiet; middling upland, 19.00; no sales.

Better Tone Shown.

New Orleans, October 27.—Continued liquidation of the long interest worked against values in the cotton market today, although recessions were moderate and a better tone was assumed than has been in evidence of late. Good recuperative power was displayed at times, as the result of fresh buying, but the hard spots served to increase offerings from realizing longs. Last prices for the day were at a net loss of 8 to 9 points.

In the early trading the market was favorably affected by the report that a British steamship had been sunk with 9,000 bales of cotton aboard, and prices were advanced 7 to 10 points. This was followed by a reaction which carried the trading months 6 points under yesterday's close. During the remainder of the session prices fluctuated above and below the level of yesterday's close, standing at the highest, 9 to 13 points up and at the lowest 9 to 10 points down. The greatest steadiness was displayed in the afternoon following the posting of the weekly statistics, showing mill taking of 380,000 bales against 347,000 last year and 262,000 two years ago.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, October 27.—(Special.)—General business was in smaller volume in this market today and prices held steady under buying for account of spot interests and the west. In view of the recent heavy selling the market still retained a nervous tone, but the fact that spot cotton has not followed our decline had a tendency to encourage buying. As the crop is small and the demand large we favor buying, especially on all recessions from this level.

BOND, M'ENANY & CO.

New York, October 27.—The cotton market today was steady and the transactions were smaller. The liquidation during the two days past seems to be completed and the contracts sold have lodged with spinners and speculators who have confidence in their judgement of the strength of the underlying conditions. The interior spot markets have been steady, the dry goods market active with the demand still urgent.

J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, October 27.—(Special.)—Sentiment among the cotton trade today was more or less unsettled, due to the fact that the recent drastic setback has disturbed the bullish feeling that has existed for the past few weeks. We believe that the market will continue its powers of yielding to any adverse condition and we cannot advise our friends too strongly to stick fast to conservatism in making commitments, especially on the long side.

Liverpool is due five points lower for January.

JOHNSTON, STORM & CO.

New York, October 27.—(Special.)—Liverpool is selling their own market and buying here. American speculators are buying Liverpool in an effort to give the market an appearance of strength. At times they turn buyers here—provided it is not too apparent that cotton is for sale. In well-timed interviews the bulls are permitting themselves to call the crop ten million bales and the consumption fifteen million—and both of these prophesies were correct 20-cent cotton would not be out of line. The crop will probably be twelve and three-quarter millions, plus the old cotton not previously marketed, which will bring it up to thirteen and one-half millions. The mills take somewhere between thirteen million and thirteen and one-half million bales—and encroach on their own supplies for all the balance they may need, for at these prices they will want to carry a minimum and not maximum stock fro mone year to the next. The shock which the market has had should and we think has created a distrust that will prevent all outside buying at and around the present level. The accumulation of spot cot ton—for the farmer is passing it on—will in time make those who carry spot cotton nervous over their holdings. We prefer to stand to one side in markets like those and look on. Our fear is that some spasm of selling pressure, either of spots or of contracts, may carry the market off of its feet.

RENSKORF, LYON & CO.

New York, October 27.—(Special.)—The cotton market today was an erratic, nervous, up and down affair. At times when small buying orders appeared, few sellers were in evidence and prices advanced easily and rapidly. At other times, when moderate-sized selling orders came in, buyers were few and prices declined sharply. Just before the closing, with prices at the bottom and with a further break apparently impending, one of the leading local bulls bought a few thousand bales and prices advanced quickly.

As outlined in our letter of yesterday, the market, eliminated of weak speculative longs, is again under domination of big people.

Concentrated, these interests would be formidable, but believing as we do that they are acting independently of each other, although momentarily in accord, we must expect periods when liquidation on the part of any branch of the bull party will produce declines, which may be severe or moderate, according to market conditions or the attitude of other bull leaders. Consequently, it looks to us as if nervous and erratic markets would prevail temporarily. We believe purchases made on sharp breaks and well-margined, will ultimately show good profits. Cotton, in our opinion, will sell much higher eventually. The present hesitation is natural after an advance of $35 per bale.

Cotton oil was steadier in sympathy with strong cotton and lard. We are still against purchases at present levels, although believing high justified later on under existing conditions. We still expect to see seed at $75 or $80 per ton.

CHARLES FAIRCHILD & CO.

New York, October 27.—(Special.)—A quieter market in the volume of transactions but with most erratic trading due to the influencing of two conflicting currents, one, the dribbling liquidation of outside longs who wish to close their accounts, having been disturbed by the sudden declines of yesterday and the day before; the other, the buying in a rapid manner by the large local traders who are believed to be heavily long and who express great confidence in the ultimate value of cotton.

After the market has weakened under this outside realizing, they appear as buyers, as has been shown several times today. After the close January sold at 18.97 and March at 19.10.

GEORGIA PAYS TRIBUTE TO FRANK L. STANTON

Exercises in Honor of Poet Are Held in Many Parts of the State.

Yesterday was Frank L. Stanton day.

Throughout Georgia the day was observed and special homage was paid Georgia's sweetest singer, who has won his way into the hearts of the people by his verse.

In many of the public schools of the city as well as in other cities in the state special exercises were held. Stanton's poems were read and Stanton's songs were sung.

Mr. Stanton's desk in The Constitution was literally covered with flowers when he came down to the office Friday morning. All day long he was kept busy answering the telephone and opening letters and telegrams that were showered on him from friends who wanted to wish him many returns of the day and to assure him of their love and esteem.

Stanton, the poet, is also the philosopher. His verse, while sweet and flowing, also expresses the philosophy of one who knows human beings like a book and who loves his fellow man. All Dixie loves Frank L. Stanton and all southerners feel as though he belongs not Georgia, but to the entire south.

Starting as a country printer in Smithville, where he issued a small weekly, Frank L. Stanton has won his way to the top of the ladder as a poet of the people. Even when in the little south Georgia way station his writings attracted the attention of many, and his little paper had a wide circulation, as Georgia folk wanted to read his column, which even then was called "Just From Georgia."

Today Frank L. Stanton occupies a position in southern literature that is undisputed. He is recognized as Dixie's nominee for the hall of fame.

Exercises at Emory.

Emory University, Oxford, October 27. (Special.)—Emory college, the school of liberal arts of Emory university, fittingly observed "Stanton day" Friday morning at the chapel hour. Dr. Edgar H. Johnson, the dean of the college, presided and, in his introductory remarks, indorsed Stanton's philosophy of life by quoting the celebrated quatrain:

"This world that we're a-livin' in
Is mighty hard to beat:
We find a thorn with every rose,
But ain't the roses sweet?"

Brief addresses were made by Drs. W. F. Melton and Elam F. Dempsey.

Dr. Dempsey beautifully introduced his remarks with this tribute to Stanton: "When I was called upon by Dr. Melton to have a part in the program today, there came to me a vision in the night. I seemed to see the Muse of Georgia brooding over her favored domain—the Empire State of the South, I saw her gather the golden sunbeams of our southern clime, the fragrance of her flowers, the rich autumn hues of her forests from hillside and mountain top, and mingle with their gladness the weird melancholy of Indian summer's soft blue haze and the keener air of winter's frost and rime, and set it pulsing with the human heart and make it sublime with the human soul, and she said, "I will give to Georgia Frank Lebby Stanton."

Drs. W. F. Melton and James Hinton, of the faculty, and Halsey Garland, president of the student body, read selections from the poems of Stanton. George Hugh Boyd, accompanied by Walter Stephenson, sang "Just A-wearyin' for You."

WAYCROSS OBSERVES FRANK STANTON DAY

Waycross, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) Frank Stanton day was appropriately observed in the public schools today. At the Central School auditorium exercises an address was made by Superintendent A. G. Miller, followed by a talk by Miss Ham and a reading by Miss Wood. Because a brother of the Georgia poet, Y. L. Stanton, resides here, Waycross took special interest in the day's observance. The poet's brother is president of the board of education.

ROME WOMAN'S CLUB HOLDS STANTON DAY

Rome, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Friday afternoon F. L. Stanton day was observed under the auspices of the literary department of the Woman's club, Mrs. C. W. King, chairman of the department, presided and introduced those on the program. Greetings from Mr. Stanton were read by Mrs. King and an appreciation of Mr. Stanton and his work was given by Miss Mattie B. Shelbley. A choice selection of his beautiful poems were rendered by Mrs. Ross, of the expression department, and a collection of those set to music sung by Mrs. Broughton, of Shorter college. The program greatly enjoyed, consisted mostly of verses composed in Rome when Mr. Stanton, with those brilliant journalists, John Temple Graves, John Locke Martin and Montfolsom, were associated on the Tribune back in 1888.

EISEMAN'S ATLANTA

AMUSEMENTS

"Daddy Long Legs."

(At the Atlanta.)

This afternoon and tonight will witness the final two performances of "Daddy Long Legs" at the Atlanta theater. This play has been as enthusiastically received this year as last and is making a tremendous hit at the Atlanta with the same fine cast. The matinee is at 2:30 o'clock and the final performance tonight.

Maude Adams.

(At the Atlanta.)

Charles Frohman was sure when he first read "The Little Minister," a Scotch novel by the then unknown author, James Matthew Barrie, that it would make a fine play. When he induced, cajoled and persuaded Mr. Barrie to turn the novel into a play he "discovered" a dramatist that has since been made a baronet in recognition of his genius. And when the same manager "discovered" in Maude Adams an actress worthy of being starred in "The Little Minister," he sent along the theatrical highways a young woman who was destined to become the most popular actress that this or any other country has ever known. For a long time there has been an insistent demand from the admirers of the actress that she give them again the play in which she scored her first big success, and this is why "The Little Minister" will be the bill when Miss Adams comes to the Atlanta for three nights and Wednesday matinee opening Monday. In the comedy Mises Adams will again be seen as Lady Babbie. That both play and player will be welcomed is a surety. There are many people to whom Mr. Barrie's fascinating comedy will be new, but they will be no less anxious to see it than those who witnessed it when first given and remember it with pleasant visions. Miss Adams has made a handsome production of "The Little Minister," and in its unfolding she will be assisted by a strong and well-balanced company. Seats now on sale.

Loew Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

"Kinkaid Kilties," a lavish Scotch native musical revue, presented by twelve skilled artists, mostly pretty Highland girls, is the headliner of the all-star bill of Loew vaudeville to be presented the opening week at the Grand theater. The coming of Marcus Loew attractions into the Atlanta theatrical field promises to establish an epoch. Besides the musical revue, the bill offers Marie Russell, the celebrated "Belle of Kentucky," in a "Study in Brown," delectable character impersonation; the Chinese musical entertainers, versatile musicians; Herbert & Dennis, vaudeville's most jocular jesters, and Ella LaVall, the daring aerial heroine. The vaudeville program is supplemented by the extravangant Robert Warwick picture vehicle, "The Heart of a Hero," coupled with Hearst's International News.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

For next week at the Forsyth Manager George Hickman has secured a splendid bill of Keith vaudeville that is head-lined by two stellar attractions, Emma Carus, the noted comedienne, and the Ballet Classique from the Metropolitan opera house, New York city. Other good acts make up the bill. Saturday matinee and night Atlantans have their last chance to see Fred Tallman, world champion pool shot, in action. He is a feature of this week's bill, which includes Charles Evans and company, Arthur Stone in "Green Goods," the Tuscano Brothers, Violinsky, Milton and the De Long Sisters and the Cheyenne Minstrels.

Buch Bros.

(At the Piedmont.)

One of the best vaudeville acts of its kind that has been seen here in a long time is that of Buch Bros. at the Piedmont theater this week, and which can be seen today for the last time. It is chock-full of comedy of the really funny kind. The man or woman who does not laugh during the entire time these two clever acrobats are upon the stage certainly is hard to amuse.

In addition there are four other offerings that please, especially is this true of "Restivo," the accordionist. He has a peculiar style and swing to his music that "gets over" at every performance and causes his response to several encores.

On the screen is being shown Henry Walthall in "Beulah."

"Purity."

(At the Georgian.)

Today, for the last time, Audrey Munson, the greatest of all artists' models, will be seen at the Georgian theater in "Purity." The picture has drawn crowds throughout the past week, which have left the theater with nothing but words of praise for the production.

"Purity" is a morality play based, first, on the happiness of the world's people before the advent of Evil, when man and womankind moved across green and velvety expanses, undraped, unashamed, untroubled. With the coming of Evil, the human body awoke to shame. This shame, interpreted in the allegory, is later expressed in modern fashion, Miss Munson, who plays "Purity" in the allegory, assuming the role of the modern "Purity Worth" in the proceeding narrative.

IT'S A WAR OF WORK, SAYS FRENCH MINISTER

Paris, October 27.—In a debate in the chamber of deputies today regarding "embusques" or those evading service at the front, General Roques, war minister, said since the passing of the Dalbiez law 208,000 young men had been "recovered" from the civil zone and sent to the army zone. Many of them, he said, have been replaced by women, of whom 53,000 are employed on other work than munition making.

Concerning the territorials in the civil zone, General Roques declared their work was incessant, while the fighting regiments had turns of repose.

"In the civil zone," the war minister said, "there is always work to be done. It is a war of work. Never has there been a war in which so much work had to be done."

THREE APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED BY HARRIS

The following news bulletion was issued by the governor's office Friday:

"The governor has appointed Hon. J. W. Callahan, of Bainbridge, a member of the board of trustees of the State College of Agriculture to succeed Hon. Judson L. Hand, for the term ending August 14, 1918.

"It was found that members of the general assembly are eligible to this position, as it has no emolument annexed thereto.

"The governor appointed Miss Mamie Mobley, of Atlanta, and Miss Louise Hazlehurst on the board of examiners of nurses for Georgia for terms of three years, beginning September 23, 1916."

Dr. Proctor Returns.

After a trip of over three weeks, the pastor, Rev. H. H. Proctor, of the First Congregational church, will fill his pulpit at both services Sunday. He will have many things of interest to tell his congregation.

Preacher Found Guilty Of Bigamy, Swindling, Fraud and Blasphemy

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., October 27.—Arthur Worthington, former pastor of the Presbyterian church in New Hamburg, N. Y., was deposed yesterday from the ministry and ex-communicated from the Presbyterian church by a trial commission of ministers and laymen of the North River Presbytery. He was found guilty of bigamy, swindling, fraud and blasphemy.

The evidence secured after two years' investigation showed that Worthington had nine wives and was known under eleven aliases. His right name is Samuel Oakley Crawford. Records show he served two prison terms for fraud, one in Albany, N. Y., and one in Melbourne, Australia. His operations covered the United States, Europe and the Antipodes. In his activities he secured by false pretense more than $500,000, it is alleged. The deposed minister disappeared from Poughkeepsie five weeks ago.

SECOND CAMPAIGN TRIP FOR JOHN M. PARKER

New Orleans, October 27.—John M. Parker, progressive nominee for vice president, announced tonight he will leave here tomorrow night for his second campaign trip. His itinerary has not been completed, but he said he would visit Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, speaking in Indianapolis Monday night, in Chicago Tuesday night and in Detroit Wednesday night. He expects to make a number of speeches at factories and industries plants among laboring people in those three cities in the day time and may visit smaller cities near the cities mentioned.

STREET CAR STRIKE SERIOUS AT KEY WEST

Key West, Fla., October 27.—The street car strike which has been on here for three weeks took a very serious turn today, when crowds of strikers and sympathizers attacked policemen riding on the cars to preserve order and compelled them to desert their posts. The street car company then called in all of the cars.

The strikers today threatened to call upon all of the workers in the cigar factories, several thousand in number, to walk out Monday unless the business houses cut out electric lighting. The same company which operates the street cars also furnishes commercial lighting power.

The strike had its origin in the installment of pay-as-you-enter cars, the company cutting off one man of the car crew. Then when a settlement was about to be accomplished, the men refused to go back to work, it was said, because the company would not discharge the few men who had refused to strike.
